B.C. Cattle Ban Legally Shaky, Ottawa Asserts

Quebec's Embargo Also Questioned

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP)—Officials here said today that the embargo imposed by British Columbia on all livestock and meats from the prairies is not legally binding. However, the federal government has decided against any direct legal action to overrule provincial restrictions on inter-provincial trade.

Quebec has restricted livestock and meat shipments from all provinces, and there is some doubt whether Quebec's action placing import under a permit system is constitutional.

Today, Manitoba asked the federal government to ban shipments from other western provinces. Also, the province asked that a floor price be established on live cattle sold for slaughter.

It is generally understood that the federal government acts almost automatically on a provincial request for a such a ban. The federal government already has banned livestock shipments into Ontario at the request of that province.

NEW PLANS

The government is expected to come up shortly with a new set of plans to deal with various problems resulting from the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

Problems to be clarified include suggestions for increased compensation payments to farmers whose livestock is destroyed.

Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner and other officials are preparing a new policy statement.

In the Regina area slaughtering of infected herds continued today and so far about 238 cattle and 68 sheep have been destroyed and buried.

The slaughter will continue throughout the week end, until about 850 infected cattle, 190 swine and 140 sheep are destroyed.

The statement being prepared by Mr. Gardiner is expected to touch on provincial livestock embargoes and perhaps a new buffer zone for the stricken area. Such a zone would act as a second line of defense against the scourge in south Saskatchewan.

MIGHT BE ANSWER

At the moment, the Saskatchewan quarantine area takes in 10 municipalities adjacent to Regina and a fraction of an 11th. A new ban might be put into force to prevent the movement of animals in a wider area which could be the answer to provincial fears of the disease spreading.

Willi Bruntjen, the suspected carrier, remains as the house guest of the federal government at Hull, Que., where animal pathologists are making tests on his personal effects and bits and pieces of his clothing. Results of the tests will be known in about a week.

One encouraging sign amid all the turmoil is a report from the agriculture department that no new cases of the disease have been spotted.

Veterinarians checked a suspected case at Pennant, Sask., 200 miles west of Regina, but found it was not foot-and-mouth disease.

In the last week veterinarians have run down dozens of suspected cases but all were found to be false alarms.

Fine Catch Opens Trout Season

Conditions weren't the best for opening of the trout season yesterday, but anglers were out in usual numbers. There were few reports of success, or lack of it, but one fisherman who did well was Joe Jewkes, 2364 Dunlevy, who caught 11 fine rainbows on the fly in Shawnigan Lake. Jewkes miscounted and missed his limit by one. All were caught on an orange-bodied Haggard. — (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Councillor Urges Sharing of Arena

Division of Assets, Debts Part of Sport Facilities Plan

By RAY BAINES

An inter-municipal board to own and operate both the Memorial Arena and Royal Athletic Park has been proposed by Saanich Councillor H. K. Bate.

Clr. Bate will introduce a motion at Monday's Saanich council meeting to hold a preliminary discussion with the city and representatives of the other two municipalities.

He has been assured support for his motion from Clr. Leslie Passmore.

"I feel it would stop all this bickering and backbiting about outside municipalities riding free on the city's back, and would put both operations on a sound paying basis," Clr. Bate said yesterday.

The young councillor has tentatively suggested that the board should be composed of seven members three from the city, one from each of the adjacent municipalities and an impartial chairman elected by a two-third majority of the six.

EQUAL RIGHT

"The outside municipalities have a right on a thing of this kind to be represented equally with Victoria on a population basis," he said.

The board would assume the present assets and liabilities of both properties, that is, it would own them outright.

The city, which holds clear title to the Athletic Park, would sell it to the board at a price agreeable to both parties. In the case of the arena, the board would assume the present debt.

Clr. Bate said he felt that the arena debenture issue with a 15-year term should be refunded and the whole debt refinanced on a longer term.

BETTER RATE

"I am certain that with the joint guarantees of the four municipalities we could get a better rate of interest on our bonds. This has been proved in the case of the Greater Victoria Water Board."

He added that the debt should be issued on a longer-term basis in the case of the arena because "posterity should pay for that which it is going to enjoy." He suggested a 30-year term instead of the present 15.

"I'm sure the arena will be still there in 30 years," he said.

Clr. Bate pointed out that there were many details which would have to be worked out, but felt the principle was a sound answer to a difficult problem.

"At the same time, it would take the arena and the park out of the field of city politics, where they have been used by certain members of city council to make cheap publicity at the expense of other municipalities.

"It would also enable residents of Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich to have a say in the running of the two projects and thus ensure that the mistakes of the past would not be repeated."—He repeated the point that with the joint credit of four municipalities they might be put on a paying basis once they are removed from the realms of petty municipal politics.

"In my own mind I am positive there are as many sport fans in municipalities as in the city and I'm sure these same fans would be happy to see these projects justly owned and operated."

Farouk Names Premier

CAIRO, Egypt, March 1 (AP)—King Farouk today appointed Ahmed Naguib Pasha, an Independent, as Prime Minister of tense and heavily guarded Egypt.

The palace announcement said Farouk had accepted the resignation of Prime Minister Aly Maher Pasha, whose non-party government had ruled since Jan. 27 under martial law, which continues.

Maher quit Saturday just before he was to have begun peace moves aimed to settle the bitter feud with Britain over the British-held Suez Canal zone and the Egyptian-claimed, million-square-mile Sudan.

For several hours before the palace announcement that the 60-year-old Hilaly was taking over Egypt was without an effective government but was on the alert for trouble.

Police patrols filled the streets of the Egyptian capital on the look-out for violence as news of the crisis spread.

NO REASON

Maher Pasha met for an hour with his cabinet this morning. Striding out, he tersely told reporters he was quitting. He gave no reason, but political sources said his move may have been touched off by a dispute with the palace.

His son, Mohammed Aly Maher Pasha, said the 69-year-old leader resigned because of "inability to work due to mysterious currents behind his back."

Other informants said they believed the shuffle was prompted by an attempt to split the nationalist Wafdist party, which holds a big majority in parliament.

De Gaullists May Enter Government

The Socialists, however, may refuse to go along with the proposal.

Gen. De Gaulle's Reunion of the French People Movement (RPF), biggest party in the National Assembly, has blamed constitutional weaknesses for much of France's current financial and other ailments.

The first indication that the De Gaullists had changed their minds about entering a French government came from Jacques Soustelle, young parliamentary leader for the party.

The entry of the R.P.F. into the government would terminate the middle-of-the-road "third force" coalition which has governed France since De Gaulle's provisional regime resigned in 1946.

Reynaud is trying to form a new government to replace the Edgar Faure government which fell Friday.

U.S. Visitor Hit, Robbed By Soldiers

An Indian, visiting Victoria from the United States, was beaten up and robbed last night.

Kernel Martin, 60, of Grace Harbor, Washington, was attacked by four soldiers in downtown Victoria about 5 last night.

The soldiers beat Martin up and robbed him of $4.

Martin was taken to the Royal Jubilee Hospital where he was treated for a cut left eye.

Later in the evening, two soldiers were apprehended by the city police, and later turned over to the Provost Corps, in connection with the robbery.

Hong Kong Riots Wound 30

HONG KONG, March 1 (INS)—More than 5,000 Communist-led Chinese fought British police and troops today in a two-part riot that left 30 persons wounded, including two United States government officials.

The rioters, part of an angry, anti-British mob of 20,000, overturned automobiles, set fire to some of them and hurled missiles in the main streets of Kowloon, the mainland sector of Britain's Hong Kong colony before order was restored.

The British warned Europeans to remain indoors tonight.

The Chinese Communist radio has broadcast veiled threats against the British colony recently and fears were expressed the Peiping regime may use the riot as a pretext to move in.

STRUCK BY STONES

They were struck in the head by stones as they stepped out of a taxi. Ballantyne was taken to a hospital where a stitch was taken in his scalp. Leach's injury was superficial.

The rioting began when the British refused to admit a 30-man Chinese Communist "relief team" which carried supplies for Chinese victims of a recent Hong Kong fire. The ban was imposed to prevent "repercussions" in Peiping's cold war against Hong Kong.

Most of the rioters were students.

Bonner Threatens Blow at E. & N.

(Special to The Colonist)

COURTENAY, March 1.—George E. Bonner, president of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association, said here tonight that if the C.P.R. didn't carry out its pledge to the people of Vancouver Island he would urge the federal government to sell the E. & N. Railway to the highest bidder.

Interviewed here during the jubilant celebrations marking the arrival of the Ski Train Special, Mr. Bonner said, "If the C.P.R., through the E. & N. Railway, doesn't fulfill the function that it pledged itself to originally, I shall ask the Dominion government to foreclose on its contract."

From time to time it has not only not lived up to its contract but has started to reduce its service, he said.

"Should this continue, I shall ask the government to put the E. & N. Railway up for sale to the highest bidder."

Truman Plans Policy Speech On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—President Truman will carry to the country his fight for a $7,900,000,000 foreign aid program with a nation-wide radio and television address Thursday night.

He is expected to appeal for public support in what may be a fight with a critical Congress.

At about the same time, Congress is expected to receive the President's program for new overseas military and economic aid, calling for about $7,900,000,000 in foreign appropriations.

The President will speak over all major radio and television networks between 7.30 and 8 p.m., P.S.T. Thursday, the White House announced.

Last year Congress cut $1,200,000,000 from the President's request for $8,500,000,000 in foreign assistance.

Pact Nations Will Retaliate

LONDON, Feb. 29 (INS)—The United States, Britain and most other Atlantic Pact nations have agreed to restrict the movements of Russian, Romanian and Bulgarian diplomats around their respective capitals, in retaliation for Russian restrictions on western diplomats.

This was disclosed today by an authoritative informant who said the agreement was reached at a secret meeting in Lisbon during the recent Atlantic Pact conference.

The restrictions, to become effective in mid-March, will limit movements of the Communist-bloc diplomats in London to an area within an 18-mile radius from the centre of the city.

The restrictions will be similar to those imposed on Hungarian diplomats last February.

Traditional Attacks Due In Full Commons Debate

By TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA, March 1 — Two want-of-confidence motions in the government will be moved in the House of Commons on Monday when debate on the Speech from the Throne will be launched in full stride.

It will be "leaders' day," with the leaders of all four political parties speaking. First, there will be Progressive Conservative leader George Drew as official opposition leader, followed by Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, C.C.F. leader M. J. Coldwell, and finally Social Credit leader Solon Low.

Mr. Drew will move an amendment to the main motion for adoption of the Throne Speech, in which the Progressive Conservatives will charge the administration with over-taxation and failure to take adequate measures to counter inflation and the high cost of living.

The sub-amendment, which will be put forward by Mr. Coldwell, will also be along the lines of criticizing spiraling living costs. Parliamentary rules will prevent Mr. Low from moving another sub-amendment, but once disposition is made of the C.C.F. sub-amendment, the Social Crediters may later in the debate move a sub-amendment of their own.

OTHER BUSINESS

The Throne Speech debate will have the right-of-way for two weeks. If it is not concluded within that time, which appears unlikely, other business will probably be presented for consideration, which would hold up conclusion of discussion on the Speech from the Throne.

One of the main criticisms expected to be directed against the government's policies is in connection with inflation and the high cost of living. Mr. Drew in particular will attack the vast budgetary surplus which at the end of January had topped $700,000,000. He will charge the government with over-taxing the people of Canada.

On Canada's trade situation, Mr. Drew will criticize the lack of action on the part of the government in trying to prevent the loss of the British market for Canadian producers. Another point which will be raised by the opposition leader is the government's past optimistic statements concerning Canada's defense and defense production program. He will charge that actual results do not come near approaching the optimistic statements which the government has made. The demand for essential strategic materials, particularly for metals, is outstripping new finds; and this may also add ammunition for Mr. Drew.

Injured Girl Still Serious

Three-year-old Darlene Corbett, seriously injured Friday morning in a traffic accident on Burnside Road, was reported to be still in serious condition, but resting more comfortably last night in the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The little girl is suffering from a fractured skull, two broken legs and other injuries.

She was crossing Burnside between Harrison and Davin when she was in collision with a truck.

Darlene is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Corbett, 3230 Albion.

April 21 Holiday

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP)—Queen Elizabeth's birthday, which falls on April 21, will be a statutory holiday in Canada, the federal government has announced.

Other statutory holidays yet to come this year include Good Friday, Easter Monday, Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day which is usually observed on the second Monday in October, Remembrance Day and Christmas.

Skipper of Tugboat Saved as Craft Sinks

VANCOUVER, Feb. 29 (CP)—Tugboat skipper Jack Watson of West Vancouver pulled a Captain Carlsen of his own today by staying aboard until his craft heeled and sank.

The 34-year-old skipper was pulled through the water to safety only a few moments before his $14,000 tug, The Little D, rolled over and went down in 60 fathoms.

Watson was alone on the craft as he took her from Ganges harbor to Vancouver, where he intended picking up a crew.

After bucking a four-hour gale in the vicinity of Gabriola Pass, Watson sent out a radio call for assistance at 2.10 a.m. Friday. The tugboat William J. Todd of Todd's Fishing Company, Victoria, stood by for over an hour and took Watson aboard before the sinking.

"Every sea came aboard and after an hour's running I was pooped," said Watson. "The boat was filling and although I was in the wheelhouse, all the windows were broken and water was driving through the door."

With water swirling around his degs, Watson put in a radio call for help just after 2 a.m. and the Todd responded.

"It was tough getting a line aboard, but we finally did and we worked until 5 a.m. trying to pump out The Little D, but it didn't do any good.

"I hollered, 'She's going down. I better get off.'"

With that, Watson tied a 1½-inch rope around himself and crew members of the Todd pulled him through the water to safety.

Planes Strafe Allied Lines

SEOUL, March 2 (Sunday) (AP)—Four unidentified planes Sunday attacked Allied positions on the uneasy Korean front, where raids, skirmishes and artillery fire are slowly mounting in tempo.

The four planes, presumably Communist, strafed and hurled rockets at Allied lines in central Korea, where for two days Allied tanks have been raiding and shooting up Red positions.

Damage, if any, was unreported. But the attack was typical of the recent quickening of frontline action at a time when the armistice talks are going badly.

Allied tank raiders speared into the centre of the Communist lines for the second straight day Saturday and ran into hot artillery fire. The Communists have destroyed or damaged 12 Allied tanks in the two days.

Power Chair Crashes Fence

Something new in traffic accidents put an invalid in hospital late last night. S. J. Lawrence, 2560 Shelbourne, was admitted to the Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering minor injuries after his powered wheel chair went out of control on Fernwood Road, near Pembroke, and rolled over. The vehicle went up on the sidewalk, and ended up hanging from a fence on Fernwood. Sgt. Brooke Douglass and Constable Ian Duncan of the City Police Traffic Division are seen lifting the carriage from the fence.—Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.

Rhee Flays Truce Try

SEOUL, March 1 (INS)—Bitter criticism of Allied attempts to negotiate a peace with the Communists was sounded today by South Korean government leaders as the nation celebrated the 33rd anniversary of a historic general strike and demonstration against Japanese rule.

President Syngman Rhee told a Pusan audience of thousands commemorating the 1919 uprising against Japan that the current armistice talks have "lowered the esteem of the democracies in the eyes of many of the peoples of the world."

Rhee added:

"The seven months of double-talk has given the Communists an opportunity to consolidate their position on land and strengthen their air forces. During the same period we have not moved a single step closer toward unifying Korea, punishing the aggressors, or ensuring the principle of collective security.

"World peace can be achieved only by convincing the real war-makers that it is impossible to conquer the free nations."

Rhee's speech set the tone for statements by government leaders in other areas of the war-torn republic.

Meanwhile, in Munsan, Korean armistice negotiations were critically deadlocked Sunday by Communist insistence on naming Russia as one of the "neutral" nations to police a truce.

But there was no indication either side would move to break off the talks, which have survived other stalemates.

The Communists declared Saturday they will "eternally reject" Allied opposition to Russia as a member of the truce inspection team.

YOUR DAILY COLONIST

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

The roofs of downtown buildings could be put to a variety of interesting uses.

It occurred to me, when I looked down on Victoria from Alec Merriman's office eyrie on the tenth floor of the Bank of Toronto Building, that some of the flat roofs in Victoria were wasted as playgrounds for pigeons and seagulls.

Normally one doesn't think much about roofs. One takes them for granted as mere coverings to keep out the rain. But when they are visible beneath the feet instead of out of sight above the head, one looks at them as stout Cortez (Balboa, that is) looked on the Pacific.

The world of the rooftops, in actual fact, resembles a desert more than an ocean. A little imagination and more than a little money would make it blossom like the rose.

A roof-top night spot charging reasonable prices would be a fine symbol of the worker's triumph over the worries that plague him during the day. Imagine a band playing under the stars, and waiters hurrying about with food and drinks to tables set among waving palmettos.

And the dancers would shuffle about the roof, showing their contempt for the dusty world of offices and stores which lay shuttered and empty under their feet. A man who worked all day in the office below could bring some color into his humdrum life by administering a vicious kick to the fabric of the building.

If he put his foot through the roof in the process, this would add to the fun.

Whether or not roofs could stand the strain of such unusual activities, I couldn't say. What do you think I am, an architect?

But the possibilities seem enormous: roof cafes, cocktail lounges, beer gardens, miniature golf courses, roof flower beds, and deck chairs and couches among the roses where tired workers could lounge in the lunch hour upon payment of a small fee.

In the building that houses this newspaper, a door opens upon acres of flat roof surfaced with tar and gravel. The roof has been used sometimes as an exercising yard for stray cats which have temporarily attached themselves to the newspaper. Once 100 pounds of anchovies salvaged from the big dry-dock at Esquimalt were placed there for a while because they smelled as though they needed some fresh air.

A few people who bring sandwiches to work sometimes use the roof in summer as an outdoor dining room. But the roof, obviously, is not the paradise it might be.

Yesterday I wandered briefly about the roof in the sunshine, seeing in fact that children in the school yard below, and the cars and people going about the street; but seeing in imagination flower-bushes sprouting and fountains playing.

A desire to live dangerously made me prop a step-ladder against a wall and climb to another level of the roof eight feet higher. There I strode around feeling a slight sense of exhilaration, like the fourth mate of a garbage scow walking the bridge.

But when I prepared to come down, the ladder was missing. Someone had pulled it away down. Feeling something like a character from a comic strip, I found another ladder on the roof, lowered it, and managed to claw my way down with all limbs intact.

Back in the newsroom, I could tell by the smirk on a colleague's face who had removed the step-ladder. I'll fix him. When I open my roof night club, the head-waiter will have orders not to let him in.

Courtenay Gives Rousing Welcome As Ski Train From Victoria Arrives

(Special to The Colonist)

COURTENAY, March 2.—The Comox Valley opened its heart in a tumultuous welcome last night as the Ski Train Special whistled its way into Courtenay station carrying 250 skiers from Port Angeles, Victoria, Duncan, Nanaimo and Port Alberni.

As the Diesel-drawn coaches pulled in they were met by an enthusiastic crowd of district suppliers [illegible] suited visitors to the Comox Valley.

The Comox District Band struck up a lively tune, a welcome banner waved in the cold night breeze and car horns blared a greeting.

The warm reception, both to visitors and townspeople, signified that the success of the venture may serve to vital purposes.

To the Vancouver Island Ratepayers, headed by fiery George E. Bonner, it meant one more argument in favor of improved service by the E. & N. Railway.

SKIERS PARADISE

To the citizens of the Comox Valley it meant that the wonders of Forbidden Plateau and the surrounding skiers' paradise would be revealed to lower Vancouver Island residents who would spread the good word.

On hand to greet the visitors were Mayor Joseph Hitchen, Aldermen William Cooke, William Moore and Arthur Tilbe, representing the city of Courtenay; Lyall Barrie, president of the Courtenay-Comox Chamber of Commerce and Keith Morton, president of the Comox District Mountaineering Club, which helped complete plans.

When all visiting skiers had detrained and baggage and skis had been shouldered, a parade was held from the station down through the centre of Courtenay to the Native Sons Hall. All along the mile-and-a-half route townspeople turned out to applaud the paraders.

In the business section the streets were lined with residents calling out to the skiers who swung along to marching music. Lighted store windows carried banners like, "Welcome to Skiers from Port Alberni," "Greetings to American Skiers," "The Comox District Welcomes Visiting Skiers."

NOISY CELEBRATION

Shopkeepers stood in doorways beside customers to swell the noisy celebration.

Inside the Native Sons Hall, skiers dumped their equipment in designated spots preparatory to being transported to hotels.

Two hotels in Courtenay and one in Comox had been reserved for the visitors. Other skiers will be billeted with members of the Mountaineering Club and other residents.

In his speech of welcome Mayor Hichen told the skiers that he hoped the visit would be the start for many like expeditions.

"A great deal of time and effort has gone into the arrangements for this ski special," the mayor said. "And it is a distinct credit to the sponsors, the V.I. Ratepayers' Association, Hickman-Tye Hardware Co. Ltd., and the Victoria Snowbirds Ski Club that the venture should be met with such success."

"Therefore on behalf of all of us in the Comox Valley it gives me the greatest pleasure to extend the warmest and heartiest welcome to you from the heart of Vancouver Island, this sportsmen's paradise."

READY TO BATTLE

George E. Bonner, ready to do battle with the C.P.R. at the drop of a ski cap, said that the rousing welcome and the enthusiasm of visiting skiers proved his contention that the people of Vancouver Island wanted better service from the C.P.R. through the E. & N. Railway.

After the skiers had been taken to their hotels and had dined, visitors and residents returned to the Native Sons Hall for an old-fashioned hoedown.

After the dance, 50 of the visiting skiers accompanied by members of the Comox District Mountaineering Club were taken by bus at 1.15 this morning up to Forbidden Plateau Lodge.

They will be joined by the others who are expected to leave Courtenay and Comox at 8 and 9 a.m.

Up on the snow-covered peaks teams from Port Alberni, Campbell River and Courtenay will compete for a trophy in an inter-club downhill race. The trophy was donated by an anonymous American visitor who felt, with Mr. Bonner, that the E. & N. Railway could do more for the residents on Vancouver Island.

Skiers will spend the day at the plateau returning to Courtenay and entraining here late today.

Famous British Antiseptic T.C.P. Comes to Canada

London, England — Over the years, British people now living in Canada have demanded over and over again to have T.C.P., the well-known British antiseptic available to them. The "War Brides" from the Old Country appear to have been the deciding influence, their many appealing letters written to the English Company, British Alkaloids Limited, resulted in limited supplies of T.C.P. being brought into Canada. A father living in England, wrote a letter to the Company saying: "As a customer of many years standing, I can honestly say T.C.P. is a great stand-by in our household. My daughter, recently married, has gone out to Canada to make her home there, and has written to say all she wants for Christmas is a bottle of T.C.P."

It seems incredible that a product of such renown in Britain, well known also in many countries of the world, should be so long in coming to Canada; remember, too, Britain must export to the dollar countries.

T.C.P. has stood the test of time and today almost as many nicknames are given for the initials T.C.P. as for the number of ailments the famous antiseptic treats—for cuts, wounds, burns, sore throats, bites, bruises, personal hygiene and so on. It would be difficult to find a single home in Britain where you do not find a bottle of T.C.P. on the bathroom shelf.

T.C.P. is a really safe antiseptic. Its unusually clean, fresh pungent odor almost speaks the words "safe, strong antiseptic." It is said that the good things in life are worth waiting for—the British people in Canada have their wish fulfilled, they can now buy their famous T.C.P. antiseptic. It will not be long before their Canadian friends join them in asking for T.C.P. at their drug store.

Bar of Soap, Tire Tracks Clues to Huge Burglary

RENO, March 1 (INS)—A bar of soap in a wrapper stamped with the name of an Iowa Hotel and tire imprints in a driveway were the only clues today to the $2,400,000 burglary of the Reno estate of investment broker L. V. Redfield.

Cash, negotiable securities and jewelry were taken from the suburban estate Friday afternoon. The thieves took a watchdog from his post with a hambone from the Redfields' own refrigerator and carted off a 500-pound safe.

The tire marks, from which good imprints were taken, were possibly left by a green pickup truck seen in the neighborhood of the plush residence in the afternoon.

The bar of soap was found in the closet where the safe had been kept. Both Mr. and Mrs. Redfield said they had never seen the wrapper before.

District attorney Jack Streeter of Reno, said the thieves had missed another $1,000,000 in negotiable securities in a battered suitcase in the closet where the safe was kept.

MOST ENDORSED

Streeter said most of the negotiables had been endorsed by Redfield.

Redfield today admitted to reporters that "I guess I was pretty stupid" to keep the fortune in cash and securities at home. He said that he had not kept a list of the numbers of the negotiable securities and had little hope that the burglars might be traced through them.

Redfield defended the Kerry blue terrier watchdog who succumbed to the lure of a hambone as "a good dog . . . I would hate to have anything happen to him."

Redfield summoned police when he arrived home Friday afternoon with his wife and found the kitchen door unlocked. He refused to enter until police arrived.

He had reported prowlers to Reno police several times in the last two months.

Greek Spies To Die

ATHENS, Greece, March 1 (AP).—A military court today condemned eight Greeks to death and four to life imprisonment on charges of radioing Greek military secrets to Communist nations.

One due to die is a woman, defiant in her final words before the court.

Eight other persons were sentenced to lesser prison terms and seven were acquitted at the climax of a sensational two-week trial.

The prosecution had asked the death sentence for a dozen of the ring, accused of sending highly secret information by underground radio transmitters to Cominform headquarters in Bucharest, Romania, and other Red stations over a period of months.

Those sentenced to death included Nicholas Beloyannis, reputed master-mind of the ring, and Mrs. Elli Ioannidou.

PLAN APPEAL

Defense lawyers said they would appeal the death sentences to the supreme court and would ask the military governor of Athens for a reprieve.

The prosecutor said the executions would not be carried out within the usual five-day limit set by law, because Sunday and Monday are Greek holidays. This alone would stave off the executions until next Saturday.

Before passing sentence, the presiding judge asked the defendants if they had anything to say.

Mrs. Ioannidou replied: "I don't want any leniency or to segregate my activities from other members of the Communist party."

Oddities

LOS ANGELES, March 1 (INS). — Police got the loot in the climax to an early-morning robbery today, but the suspects stole the police car.

Officers G. E. Foster and R. T. Kennedy said that they gave chase to two burglary suspects fleeing in a stolen car. The patrolmen found the car with $2,000 worth of loot from a jobbing firm, abandoned in a blind alley, and they set out on foot to look for the culprits. The suspects thereupon leaped into the police car and sped off. The patrol car was later found smashed up.

HOUSTON, March 1 (AP).—Three soldiers who arrived at Union Station Friday night got a real reception—food for 1,000 men and a mammoth party with 300 girls to pick from for their dancing.

Negro civic leaders here had expected to entertain 1,000 instead of three, during a two-day furlough from manoeuvres at Fort Hood, Tex.

LEOMINSTER, Mass., March 1 (AP).—Patrolman Matico Cicone stopped his cruiser car in front of a market for a routine check of the front and rear doors. As he neared the car he stepped on a soft mound.

Cicone dashed back to the station, disposed of his clothes in the boiler and jumped into a shower.

The soft mound was a skunk.

DENVER, March 1 (INS).—Denver police today are looking for a 32-year-old man who attempted to break into the city psychopathic ward.

GREEN BAY, Wis., March 1 (AP) — A Green Bay fertilizer plant agreed today to shut down its operations whenever the wind blows from the north.

The Forkin Phosphate Co. said it will continue the policy until March 17, when new equipment to reduce fumes is installed.

U.S. Chamber Levels Blast At Government

WASHINGTON, March 1 (INS)—The U.S. Chamber of Commerce charged today that American foreign policy has not met the Communist threat and said "it is difficult to draw the line between treason and blundering" on the part of some officials.

At the same time, the chamber blasted alleged Communism in the state department, and declared there has been widespread Red infiltration into American labor unions and schools.

The charges were made in a 55-page pamphlet entitled "Communism: Where Do We Stand Today?" The report was drafted by the chamber's committee on Communism.

The publication centred its heaviest fire on what it called the failure of American foreign policy, declaring: "Our greatest need in the struggle against world Communism is consistent policy and competent diplomacy."

The chamber charged that great areas of "neutralism" have developed in western Europe, partly because of a distrust of American diplomacy. It said troubles in Iran and Egypt "have been dangerously aggravated by our diplomatic failures."

The organization declared that "only the most naive could believe that there was no Communist influence in our far eastern policy." It said U.S. intervention in Korea was a "bloody afterthought to a blunder."

Battered Hull Found Awash

HALIFAX, March 1 (CP).—The storm-battered hull of the fishing vessel Erma Rog was found awash today 65 miles southeast of Seal Island, off Nova Scotia's southwestern coast.

There was no sign of her crew. Capt. Churchill Bower of Smithville, N.S.; Elliron Nickerson and Harold Chetwynd, both of Fort Latour, N.S.

With two other fishing vessels, she had been the object of a two-day sea and air search. Idella Theta and the Lilte Clive are still unreported since a storm struck the maritimes Thursday.

Eagle Eye on Forces

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP)—Four congressional committees have placed America's world-wide military structure under the closest public audit of recent years.

Investigators have probed everything from the cost of shoes to airbases as the committees, often openly competing with each other, search for waste in the military establishments.

The legislators have made it plain they are just beginning.

The committees and their most recent sensations are:

The Lyndon B. Johnson (Dem., Tex.) Senate preparedness committee learned that workers for a super-secret airbase "near the North Pole" had collected $3,000,000 in pay before reaching the job.

The Hardy (Dem.-Va.) House expenditures sub-committee reported that between $25,000,000 and $50,000,000 have been lost by waste, kickbacks and price-boosting in the construction of north African airfields.

The Bonner (Dem.-N.C.) House expenditures sub-committee said that, despite unification, the air force was planning to establish its own supply system and other special services at an added cost "running into the billions."

The Hebert (Dem.-La.) House armed services sub-committee reported the armed forces were spending millions of dollars unnecessarily through competitve buying practises and "mismanagement" of supply systems.

In general, the Johnson and Hardy groups are concerned now with exploring the cost and methods of constructing overseas airbases.

The Bonner and Hebert committees are probing the entire intricate system of purchasing military supplies. Both groups contend that vast savings are possible by establishment of a single purchasing agency.

Military officials, summoned to testify at public hearings, have countered some of the charges brought by various committeemen, but they have not answered all criticism directed at their management.

Church Asks Probe Of Gasoline Prices

TORONTO, March 1 (CP).—The evangelical and social service board of the United Church Friday requested the federal government to investigate how the price of gasoline is determined.

The board also asked the government to look into the situation in which "certain merchandise such as electric bulbs and radio tubes are apparently manufactured with a view to lasting only a limited time."

The resolution was moved by Rev. Allen Huband of Winnipeg.

Hospital Loses 81 Nurses

CALGARY, March 1 (CP) — Eighty-one graduate nurses at the Calgary General Hospital today resigned from the hospital staff. The resignations, which were accepted, are to be effective March 31.

The nurses in a statement said the hospital had rejected certain demands with respect to working conditions and had retained Dr. J. D. Heaslip as medical superintendent in opposition to the nurses' wishes.

Road Too Valuable; Stolen Every Night

MEXICO CITY, March 1 (AP) The state roads department thinks it has found out why there's been so much trouble building a new highway between Fresnillo and Plateros in the mining area of Zacatecas.

Crushed rock the graders laid down by day has been stolen at night. An assay showed it rich in silver and lead ore.

Withdrawal of West Demanded by Mufti

KARACHI, Pakistan, March 1 (INS) — The former grand mufti of Jerusalem said today that unless the western powers, including the United States, withdraw entirely from the Near East, a third world war is imminent.

The controversial mystery man of the Moslem world, Haj Amin Elhusseini, gave an exclusive interview in a heavily-guarded private home on the outskirts of Karachi, the Pakistan capital, [illegible] guarded secret.

The 72-year-old moving spirit behind Pan-Islamism and one of the fathers of the Arab League, arrived unexpectedly from Cairo last month after Egyptian Premier Nahas Pasha's nationalist cabinet was replaced by the moderate one under Premier Aly Maher Pasha. The latter cabinet resigned today.

(Unconfirmed reports said the mufti was banned from residence in Egypt by the Aly Maher government and has asked Pakistan for asylum.)

SIMPLE THING

"The United States," said the Mufti, "can do one simple thing to restore peace and stability in the Near East—namely, to adopt from now on a policy of absolute neutrality with regard to the conflict between the Arabs and the Jews, as well as between Arabs and Britain.

"Also, she should not side with Britain and Israel as she has been doing."

He said that by Western withdrawal from the Near East he means both foreign troops and economic aid.

Asked if such a policy would not open the door to Soviet Russia to move in on the Near Eastern countries he answered:

"No, I do not think they shall fall prey to Communism or to Russian domination."

The Mufti received a correspondent in the high-walled home protected by six bodyguards armed with rifles topped by flashing bayonets. He wore an imposing red fez wrapped in a turban.

He denied frequent reports that he is working hand-in-glove with Moscow. He said he has no relation with Russia or Premier Stalin and has never visited the Soviet Union.

"Similarly," he said, "I have never visited America and have no relation with it or with Britain."

If a global East-West war comes, he said, the Moslem countries should seek their own interests, "and I believe these interests are in neutrality."

Passengers Resume Trip

CAPE COVE, Que., March 1 (CP)—Fifty-six persons, stranded here 48 hours when their train was held up by a storm, departed today by special train from Chandler, 18 miles away on the southern coast of Gaspe Peninsula.

All expressed relief when they were taken to Chandler by snowmobile today to meet the special Canadian National Railways train sent out from Campbellton.

They are bound from Gaspe village for various points in Quebec province and Campbellton.

Two other passengers bound for nearby Ste. Therese de Gaspe completed their trip by snowmobile Friday. Their train was held at the station Thursday when a snowplow, moving ahead on the one-track Gaspe-Campbellton line, failed to break through a snowdrift.

The tracks and highways were cleared Friday night.

It was decided to take the passengers to Chandler to board the special train instead of having them continue the trip on the stalled train, which will need repairs.

Coach-car seats were dismantled to provide make shift beds.

Shortages Doubted

WASHINGTON, March 1 (AP) Washington officialdom is revising its prophecies about that long-heralded "civilian pinch."

Predictions that consumers would be pinched by shortages of supplies lasting well into 1953 gave way today to expressions of belief by some officials that the situation is now at its worst and will ease off through the spring of 1952.

A dramatic letup in the demand for aluminum and some [illegible] types of steel prompts the shift in outlook.

S.P.C.A. Raps Cattle Killing

REGINA, March 1 (CP)—Members of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals today protested as "brutal" and "cruel" the slaughter of diseased animals in the drive to stamp out foot-and-mouth disease.

Question of Confidence

WITHOUT offering any comment on a case still at bar, one legitimately may question what would be the effect of the reversal of the long-established principle that information attested by an individual on his income tax return is secret and confidential, and not to be divulged by the treasury to any other government department, much less made public. Nation-wide consequences would flow from a recent ruling in the British Columbia Supreme Court if it were upheld as a part of case law and precedent in Canada. Although here the element of justice itself was involved, can there be two interpretations of that which is secret and confidential?

If the federal treasury were free in one direction to break its seal of secrecy, and waive the oath taken by civil servants to the contrary, it would be equally at liberty to do so in every other direction. Thus the way would be opened for the transmission of private information relating to individual incomes or estates to, say, the federal bureau of statistics, where such information would then become part of the public record. Were that allowed, Canada might well see the day when private fortunes and confidential details as to family and other relationships would be no more "private" than the nearest poster in a theatre forum. We might see lists of the "10 wealthiest Canadians," and so forth through every human circumstance. That does not seem to square with the obligations of the Crown.

Whatever the legal consequences of such a decision being confirmed and made part of the law of the land—and these would be many and diversified—we are concerned more with the human consequences. Mistrust of the given word of the Crown would be a very dangerous result to invite, in this age or in any other. There remains, in addition, the oath taken by civil servants. How can it be waived without an express change in the statute law?

Analyzing the Anthem

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM may not come up to the high literary standards of that erudite London magazine, The Spectator, but it scarcely warrants denunciation as a "deplorable jingle." It is true this hymn of praise is not enshrined in words of deathless poetry, but it is not to be sneered at on this account. If all lyrics had to be epics before they were sung the world would be struck nearly dumb.

Even if "God Save the Queen" were of the "street corner ballad" variety the Spectator says it is, this would not reduce either its appeal or its felicity. National ballads have been the root of genuine sentiment since men began to sing in company, and these have never depended on high-flown language. In their own way the latest popular songs reflect the same human reactions.

The words of anthems and songs are secondary to the emotions they evoke or the fine feelings engendered by their singing. Audiences giving voice to "God Save the Queen" or such well-known favorites as "The End of the Road" or "The Long, Long Trail" are uplifted by the themes expressed. Association has long since removed any banality which a pedant might discover in the verses.

The Spectator admits that the words of the national anthem are by now consecrated to tradition, which is precisely what should have stopped it from literary analysis. Some things have to be felt, not examined in the light of the alphabet. Under this heading comes the refrain known to all and sundry as the national anthem. It is the connotations that count, and, jingle or otherwise, these have come to mean something of value. If The Spectator does not thrill sometimes when "God Save the Queen" is played then obviously it has lost the common touch.

Mr. Gruber's Fifth Term

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that Mr. Hans Gruber will remain with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra for another season is bound to give much pleasure and satisfaction to music-lovers. Under his direction these last four years the orchestra has developed beyond the fondest hopes of those who have supported and fostered it in the face of the financial difficulties common to symphony orchestras everywhere on this continent. Victoria owes to Mr. Gruber a lot more than may be generally recognized, for while enjoyment of the symphonic music may be shared by an as yet relatively small segment of the community, possession of an orchestra now ranking among Canada's four best brings prestige to the city beneficial to everyone.

Mr. Gruber has steadfastly refused to "popularize" the orchestra, and his policy of adherence to the masters of symphonic composition in preference to more widely known works and the stunts and dissonances of modern writers has sometimes been criticized. His guiding principle has been that understanding and appreciation of music, and enduring support for an orchestra, can be created only by giving the best. Whether or not the standards he has set are too high and too rigid is a matter of opinion; but the unprecedented success of the current season with its almost unbroken record of packed houses certainly lends weight to his side.

In his four seasons in Victoria Mr. Gruber's achievements have been remarkable, and the orchestra, with its parent society, must be happy in the knowledge that he will be here for a fifth.

COUNTRY OF ORIGIN

Sir,—I noticed the heading in a recent issue, "A buy British policy would be a practical memorial to our late King," and am in full accordance with the idea, but it may be difficult for the purchaser to know where the goods he buys are manufactured.

For instance, having recently made some small purchases of sundry articles, including crockery, furniture, cotton goods, etc., and finding no manufacturer's name or point of origin on same, I wrote the Department of Trade and Commerce at Ottawa for some information.

They replied that there is no legal obligation on the part of merchants to mark the country of origin, with few exceptions, though they did not specify the exceptions.

It appears to me the Canadian consumer, anxious to buy Canadian or United Kingdom products wherever possible, should have something more definite than the assurance of the retailer, who possibly does not know himself where the goods came from.

A. R. DAVIDSON.

2541 Killarney Road, Victoria, B.C.

DEFINITIONS

Sir,—Mr. Harold Winch, the leader of the C.C.F. party, did not delve very deeply in supplying to the legislature a definition of "Conservative." In the report of his speech the source of his definition is not revealed, but it is to be assumed that it is one popular among the supporters of his party. The definition quoted was "one opposed to change, hence often opposed to progress." Had he gone further and consulted even the shorter Oxford English Dictionary he would have found other definitions, more accurately descriptive of the Conservative doctrine of government, but not so suitable to his peculiar type of propaganda, viz:

"Characterized by a tendency to preserve and keep intact—moderate and cautious—designation of the English political party, the characteristic principle of which is the maintenance of existing institutions—a preserving agent or principle—the faculty of conservation—a system of bodies in which the doctrine of conservation of energy is exemplified, and standing for education as a corrective."

Ruskin described Conservatism as being "jealously conservative of all things, but conservative of them as pillars, not as pinnacles—as aids, but not as idols." Others have described the Conservative policy as measures "tending to preserve cherished political conditions or principles—an implied disavowal of reactionary tendencies."

Obviously Mr. Winch has given more study to the policies he espouses than those subscribed to by the supporters of other parties. A Conservative is not a reactionary. The word "Tory" is an epithet describing the extreme reactionary tendencies of those who opposed Sir Robert Peel, and is used in same sense as "Grit" is to Liberalism. The best description of true Conservatism is summed up by Alfred Lord Tennyson, who was a prophet to an amazing degree as well as a poet, as "That man's a true Conservative who lops the mouldered branch away."

True Conservative principles are progressive, and Conservatives advocate reform without "reaching for the moon." One can be a Conservative without being reactionary. Can one be a Socialist without being revolutionary?

NO CONCERT HALL

Sir,—In the magazine section of a recent Sunday issue, I had the great pleasure of reading Mr. Graham Steed's article, "From My Organ Loft," well written and interesting as usual.

Indeed, it is a most disheartening experience to a visitor to find there is no proper concert hall here in Victoria. Coming direct from Sweden, as I did some time ago, and when asking people about what possibilities of enjoying good music you had here I was very disappointed, but still more surprised, at hearing the sad truth.

In Swedish towns, as is also the case in the cities of most other cultured nations in Europe, people simply would never tolerate the non-existence of a concert hall. I do not reckon of course with towns of too small a size, but I certainly think it would be rather difficult to find any community with 50,000 inhabitants, at the most, without one. In my own small country we have at least ten cities with a public concert hall, run by the community. Some of them also enjoy a substantial support from the state authorities, depending on the circumstances.

In Gothenburg for instance, my native town, a concert hall was erected 50 years ago. In 1927 a disastrous fire totally destroyed the building, but a new one was built immediately. This hall is a magnificent structure. The best-known architects in Sweden and elsewhere were summoned to partake in a contest of constructural propositions, the winners of which received handsome money-prizes . . . GUNNAR SVALANDER, Sr.

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

SOME DAY when I finish concocting a piece for this space I'll check its p's and q's before the printer puts me beyond the pale. For instance.

A horse lover writes:

"I like reading that baloney you peddle, but in today's (Feb. 26) Colonist you said that the rear section of the horse picture you were looking at had been cut off, but you go on to say that you gazed at its glossy flank. If you look up your Webster you will see that the flank is between the ribs and hip, so the cayuse you were looking at must have lost only his tail!"

Alas, he's right. I won't bother Webster but will immediately don my sackcloth and ash coat.

(P.S. Don't be in such a hurry, Tom. Look up Webster and you'll find that the flank and the rump are not the same at all at all.)

Knowing her of old, I fancy there's a twinkle at the end of her tartan pen as "Constant Reader" asks me to say a word about "this Elizabeth II business," the thesis being that Good Queen Bess was of England only and therefore our Elizabeth isn't the second of Scotland. To make the topic relevant, let's include Canada, since she is our queen too and the same argument applies.

My word shall be short. You see, a similar situation existed when both Edward VII and Edward VIII ascended the throne, and I don't remember anyone objecting to the numerical designation in either case. Precedents being what they are, it seems a bit late in the day now to get excited, doesn't it?

The wedding report glowed with rapture over the bride's satin gown and diamond tiara, sung a paen of praise for the uniforms of the pages, and lingered lovingly among the organdies of the bridesmaids—not to mention the silver candlesticks, the cake frosting and the polyanthus. At the end, as an afterthought, it gave the best man's name.

That was all. Like the groom, poor insignificant creatures they both were on such a day, he might have been garbed only in his B.V.D.'s for all anyone cared. And yet they say this is a man's world!

Strange how it is that Mayor Harrison keeps pecking at the city manager, casting doubts and damning with faint praise in a most unfair manner.

I wonder why!

Apropos the Quebec "tempest in a teapot" over the use of the word "Dominion," another lady writes to cite the basis of the objection. There is no such word in the French language, she says, and as long ago as fifteen years a French-Canadian friend told her this explained the reason for Quebec resentment. "They confuse the word 'Dominion' with their word 'dominance' and its meaning of domination."

I do wish Russia would change the record. Here she is already, dealing in calumny because Iron Curtain Czechoslovakia didn't win second place in the Olympic hockey contest. Heaven help us when the summer games come along and the Soviet itself is in competition. Coaches McKinnon and Humber can expect to be dubbed capitalistic cheats should their charges dare to defeat any Russian athlete (as I most certainly hope they do).

What a petulant, perverse, provocative politburo it is that sits in Moscow.

Here is the asked-for recipe for mead, kindly supplied by a Leighton Road lady—or rather, two recipes.

The first, entitled "The King's Mead": For a small amount, take one quart water, one cup honey, one lemon cut in slices, one-half tablespoon nutmeg. Boil until scum rises to top, removing as it rises. Add pinch of salt and juice of half a lemon. Strain and cool. Good as it is, but should stand till it is fermented.

The second, just plain "Mead": Three pounds honey, four quarts water, quarter pint brewer's yeast. Dissolve honey in water, bring slowly to boil, and simmer gently until reduced to three quarts, skimming if necessary. Turn into earthenware bowl or wooden tub, and when cool stir in yeast and let it remain covered for three days. Then strain into a cask, bung loosely until fermentation subsides, thereafter tighten bung and leave undisturbed for 12 months before bottling.

Dear me, what a long wait!

Winnowing the Office Mail

By SETH HALTON

IN THE last six years I have spent something like seven million hours opening mail. Some may charge that this is an exaggeration, but it seems to me to have been seven million, at least.

Now I used to like opening mail. I liked to look at an envelope, try to guess the sender by the handwriting and read the postmark for the point of origin. I enjoyed the pause, the mild suspense while I tore it open. It was fun to skim quickly over the letter for the important things, then later savor it word for word.

It's not like that any more. I work in a newspaper office, and opening mail—the massive stacks of mail that newspapers receive—has become nothing but a chore and a drudge, a time-consuming, cuticle-cutting, frustrating drudge at that.

Here at The Colonist we've tried everything to make it easier. We've tried paper knives and scissors on an assembly line type of operation. We've tried office boys and secretaries, but the work put them in such bad temper they became unbearable. They have cuticles too.

We've even tried forgetting about the mail, and once left it hidden for a whole day under a large pile of old papers. In a sense this was a highly satisfactory experiment, but we realized the next day how impractical it was. There were no letters to the editor in the paper and we had missed several important news stories that had been sent to us by mail.

That's the root of the problem. Out of every hundred pieces of mail reaching us about 80 are bumph but we have to open them to find it out. The letters to the editor, the news stories, the suggestions and criticism, the announcements that come by mail are our life blood and we can't risk missing them.

The bumph falls into several categories but in general terms can be described as propaganda. If all the envelopes it comes in were put side by side they'd form a rope long enough to strangle every public relations official in the country.

Some months ago, for a period of a week, I went through all the mail that came in every day and made notes on the contents. The following was one day's take, and the list does not include the legitimate material which we like to get:

Korean Affairs Institute, Washington, addressed to an editor long since dead; an exact duplicate addressed to an editor who left the paper 17 years ago; a release from F. H. Hayhurst Co. extolling the fine qualities of sherry; a release from the Associated British and Irish Railways about plans for summer travel; the daily quota of six releases from Hollywood about movies and movie stars; statements and pamphlets from the Turkish Information Office, the Saskatchewan government, the United Kingdom Information Office, the French Information Office and Argentina, the last in native language which none of us could understand.

There was a piece from a Montreal fashion firm saying that particular firm leads in the fashion field; four copies of the Salvation Army War Cry; a letter from Borden's, in New York, containing an obituary of one of their executives; two copies, each addressed exactly the same, of a release from the American Express Company about a music festival; two letters in separate envelopes from the King's Printer in Ottawa; six copies of a four-sheet blurb advertising a coaster contest; a statement from the National Warm Air Heating and Air Conditioning Association and a folder called Two Minutes of Employment Facts put out by the Information Branch of the federal department of labor. It continued about 800 words, which requires fast reading if it's only going to take two minutes.

There was also a copy of a magazine called the Instrumentalist, for school band and orchestra conductors, several trade publications, a release from the American Foot Care Institution, whatever that might be, and several departmental handouts, from Ottawa, which I didn't bother to list separately.

That's just for one day. If we printed a quarter of it there'd be no space left in the paper for news.

Other than the necessity of opening this mail at all the thing that gripes me most about it is the duplication. For a long time we got four copies of a magazine known as the C.I.L. Oval, triplicates of French Information Service material, six copies of CBC press releases from Vancouver and two of numerous others.

They come addressed to various editors. The trick a few of the public relations people use is to send copies to the editor, the news editor, the city editor, the managing editor, and perhaps, depending on the subject, to the women's editor or sports editor or others. I suppose the authors of this deathless prose think that if they scatter enough copies around one is bound to find its way into print.

They're wrong of course. Six copies of anything, or even two, annoy us. They reflect on the efficiency of our organization and our tendency is to throw them out.

Another trick, getting a little dirty now, is to address the correspondence to an individual by name and mark the envelope "personal." When the editor opens it and finds not a personal document but 2,000 words on the merits of a particular product you can imagine what happens.

Just as aggravating is the propaganda that comes in an envelope marked "NEWS RUSH" but as second-class mail, with only a two-cent stamp and the flap open. If it's not worth sending in a sealed envelope it can't be very important, and again the tendency is to throw it out.

It's regrettable that the whole caboodle can't be thrown out, really. But sometimes, in the vast conglomeration of tripe, free advertising and propaganda there appears a bit of news that we think Victorians would like to know. So we extract it and print it.

But it means a lot of cut cuticles, and a lot of reading time, for a stick of type.

Collective Insecurity

(From The Globe and Mail, Toronto)

THE MARRIAGE of Mr. Edward G. Robinson Jr. has not turned out as happily as might have been expected. His father, the celebrated movie actor, has not only disowned him, but has cut off his allowance. As a result, he and his bride will have to live on the $60 a week he makes as a laborer. But Edward Jr. is brave about it. It will be tough, he admits, "but it will teach me how to live within my income."

Millions of people, struggling along on something less than $60 a week, will find it hard to sympathize with this young man. To them that looks like good money. But anybody who is actually making $60 a week will understand Edward Jr.'s predicament precisely. It is mighty hard, they will agree, to get along on it. The $70-a-week man feels the same way about his $70, the $80-a-week man about his $80, and so on up the scale till we come to the man who just manages to scrape by on $25,000 a year.

Men's appetites for food and drink can be sated, but never their appetite for wealth. The more they have, the more they need. It is no good to argue they do not need it. They do. Whether a man desires a yacht, a car or a pair of shoes, it is, with him at least, a matter of brute necessity. If his means will not permit it, he feels underprivileged. And if he feels underprivileged, he is.

There are a few people in our society who think they get enough. There are some (though they manage to conceal their indignation) who think they get too much. But most people feel and therefore are, in straitened circumstances; the wolf at the front door, the sheriff at the back, the credit manager perched on the window ledge. Making $60 a week or $600, they are the poor whom we have always with us.

Victoria in Beard and Crinoline

From Files of The Daily British Colonist of March, 1865

By G. E. MORTIMORE

THE PIGS of Victoria were a lawless lot. Police sought one hog on a breaking and entering charge. Another was involved in a shooting affray with a prison guard.

If you don't believe that, here are two quotations from the files of The Daily British Colonist to prove it:

"The Hog Nuisance—Messrs. Jay and Co.'s Nursery Grounds on Cook Street suffered much damage on Monday evening from some hogs that effected an entrance and destroyed thousands of valuable tulips and other choice flowering bulbs.

"It is time the Corporation or some other power caused this increasing nuisance to be abated, or the country will be overrun with 'porkers.' Let the cry be 'root hog and die'."

"Hogs vs. Clocks—Notwithstanding the terrible threat against the porcine species posted up on Government Square, some perverse specimens of the race still occasionally intrude their obnoxious carcasses on the forbidden ground.

"The other day a high official, observing a 'rooter' disporting himself among the soil newly upturned by the chain gang, called out peremptorily to one of the guards, 'Policeman, shoot that pig!'

"'Yes, sir,' cheerfully responded the officer, and forthwith drawing his revolver, he commenced blazing away at the offending grunter. But the shots flew far and wide, and Piggy calmly pursued the even tenor of his way, regarding not the leaden hail which flew on all sides of him.

"The bullets were not wholly ineffectual, however, as one of them entered the window of the high official aforesaid, and smashed the office clock beyond the power of even the immortal Sam Slick to repair.

"'Sam Slick the clockmaker' was a salty character created by the humorist Thomas Chandler Haliburton, who died in that year.)

In the same issue of The Colonist was reported the levying of fines against three shopkeepers for "obstructing the sidewalk with shop goods."

Victoria must have been an interesting town, with boxes and bales piled on the sidewalk, chained convicts swinging picks and shovels, and pigs rooting in the streets. Traffic officials think they have problems today. They should have lived in 1865.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

ALL OF US who are in our late fifties and up learned to sing "God Save the Queen" under the great Victoria. Every one of us, with a certain unction, has counted back to discover that we have lived under six monarchs. It gives us an inner pomp.

When I first learned "God Save the Queen," it had three verses. Now, on searching through hymn books and other poetical sources, I can find only two. The verse that has quietly been dropped ran as follows, and many's the time I howled it in my schoolboy treble:

"O Lord, our God arise,
Scatter her enemies,
And make them fall!
Confound their politics,
Frustrate their knavish tricks,
On Thee our hopes we fix;
God save us all!"

How this verse got dropped, I do not recall. It just quietly faded away, like old soldiers. I do not remember seeing it go. Somewhere in the past 40 years, in response to a steadily-growing mildness and moderation in the public spirit, this lusty and valiant seven lines fell off the national band wagon. It is a curious thing that it should do so, because those 40 years of increasing gentleness in the public spirit have been characterized by more savage and violent disturbance than any in history.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

It's hard to say as the cold war drags on whether the uncertainty is killing us or if curiosity as to how things will come out is keeping us alive.

After all, what's the use of studying history? If it's true that history repeats itself, it will be around again.

Distinct Conflict Patterns Show As Korean War Enters 21st Month

By The Associated Press

The Korean war entered its 21st month last week.

It is a war that has fallen into distinct patterns of conflict. The latest consists of an immobilized ground war while the greatest jet battles in air history swirl over North Korea.

American heavy bombers, based on Japan and Okinawa, smash at Red supply lines and communications day in, day out. These B29s are escorted over enemy territory by U.S. jet fighters operating from bases in South Korea.

And almost daily, navy carriers, operating off both coasts, send in swarms of fighter-bombers and torpedo carriers equipped with land mines.

Red anti-aircraft defenses have improved tremendously in the last year. Devastating cones of fire now come up from Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, and other key points like Sariwon, Sinanju and Sinuiju. This fire is radar-directed from Russian-built guns of the most modern type with extremely long range. U.S. bomber casualties have mounted.

The Soviet-made Mig jet fighter has provided an unwelcome surprise. The Mig, reportedly can outclimb and outspeed American jets at altitudes over 30,00 feet but superior U.S. gunsights have minimized that advantage.

FROM SANCTUARY

The Mig jet fighters operate from the sanctuary of Manchurian bases at Harbin, Changchun, Sian, Mukden and Antung. Several times the Chinese Reds have attempted to operate from North Korean bases but these airstrips have been heavily plastered.

Some of the greatest jet dogfights in history have been fought in Mig Alley, an aerial corridor extending north from Pyongyang to the border with Manchuria.

In January, the U.S. Far East Air Force reported Allied pilots downed 31 Red jets and lost 52 of their own planes. It was the greatest Allied aerial loss of any month in the war.

Red anti-aircraft gunners knocked down 44 of this total, five were lost in dog-fights, one jet fighter and two B29s were lost in mechanical failures.

Allied aerial losses since the start of the war now total over 1,000 planes. These include 479 Air Force combat losses, 332 naval planes (including operational losses), and an unreported number of transports, small liason, spotter plane and helicopter losses.

Allied sources list 850 Communist planes destroyed or damaged during the same period, including 611 Migs.

The accompanying detail map shows how little the ground front has changed since the truce talks began last July at Kaesong.

A neutral zone, two and one-half miles wide, will be imposed on both sides of the battle line if and when agreement on terms is reached.

There have been minor shifts in a few salients and at the eastern anchor of the line during seven and one-half months. Not even the prolonged stalemate at Cassino, Italy, in the Second World War approaches this deadlock.

If the truce talks finally fail, it could take weeks of the costliest kind of fighting before either side could break through to a point where swift advances could be made.

The Communists have used the time to dig in. Intricate systems of bunkers, strongpoints and underground positions extending miles back of the front lines have been observed by U.N. ground and air patrols.

Measured by casualities alone, the First World War was more costly to the United States—a total of about 350,000 casualities against 105,000 so far in the Korean war.

But in the First World War about 30 divisions were committed to action at one time or another. In Korea, six Army divisions and one Marine division plus some subdivision size units, have done the fighting.

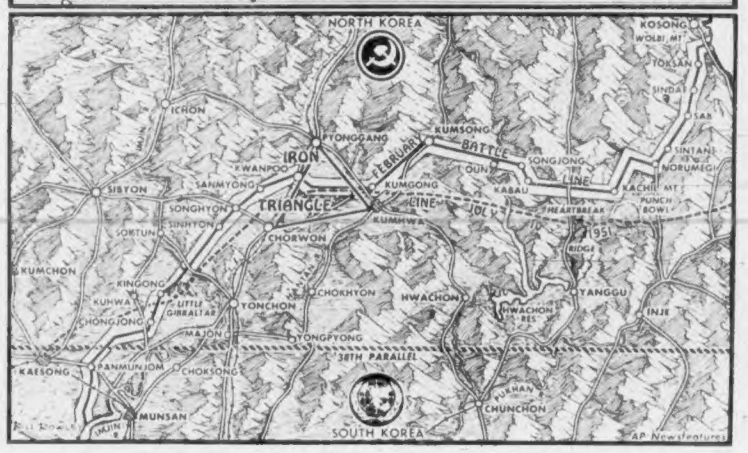
Battle deaths—men killed in action or who died of wounds—amounted to about 50,000 in World War I compared with a little over 18,000 in Korea thus prevail against Chinese Communist superiority in manpower.

The Allies still maintain control of the air over the ground fighting front. Except during the initial months, the Allies have had more and better tanks than the foe.

The First World War wounded were about 200,000, compared to about 76,000 in Korea.

Military experts says the fighting has been far more fierce in this geographically little war with a much smaller number of combatant troops involved. The nature of the fanatical enemy and use of better weapons, together with the fact that the war has been compressed into a tiny peninsula with constant close-in fighting, accounts for this.

Korea has taught some sobering lessons. Allied superiority in firepower has not been able to



Survivors Tell of Grim Life in Icy Hell

LONDON, March 1 (Nana-Reuters)—A firing squad of five solemn-faced men in anti-glare goggles, wrapped in heavy furs and reindeer skins, raised their rifles shoulder high, and took careful aim.

Shot after shot rang out across the frozen wastes 900 miles from the South Pole, until a string of bodies lay motionless in the snow.

It was the sad sequel to a $120,000 death-defying expedition into the unknown by 17 British and Scandinavian scientists. The men had to shoot "their dogs rather than run the risk of bringing back a mysterious disease which had killed many of them.

Here, in the comparative warmth of an English winter, 11 survivors of the expedition told of their incredible life in a desolate, icy hell, which began two years ago last month.

It was in February, 1950, that the Norwegian seal ship Norsel, bearing the exploration party, head by fair-haired veteran Capt. John Glaever, ran into pack ice off Queen Maud Land, inside the Antarctic Circle.

Mountains of ice, 360 feet high, converged menacingly on them from all angles "ice that could easily keep a vessel marooned for 10 or 15 years," according to one of the explorers.

Two light seaplanes, specially fitted with skis for ice landings, were lowered over the side of the ship, and soared south in search of a suitable way through the ice to a landing place.

ENDLESS STRETCH

It took them a week to find the right spot—an endless stretch of flat, unbroken ice—and they at once christened it Maudheim.

Ten thousand pounds of ham, 5,000 pounds of sugar, 75 pounds of game, four tons of vitamin pills, sunburn cream and throat pastilles, three "weasels" (snow tractors) and even prefabricated houses and workshops were landed.

The houses were warm and comfortable, lifted with electric light, and, in a short time, well-plastered with pinups from Britain, Norway and Sweden. The windows had four panes of glass as protection against temperatures of 80 degrees below zero, and there were trapdoors in the roof.

Explained Gordon Robin, 31-year-old leader of the British party. "It was not always possible to get out of the houses by the front door. One usually climbed through the roof and walked around on snow above chimney-top level."

To avoid being buried alive by drifting snow, another method of quick escape was devised — the snow tunnel.

The men melted down the shoveled snow and used the water for washing and shaving.

The "mad" British ignored the warnings of the Swedes. One Briton, lost for 10 hours in a blizzard, stumbled back to base almost frozen stiff. It took 15 minutes to thaw out his beard but he kept it!

"Perhaps it was the sheer novelty of it, or just a determination to maintain the tradition of Scott," said one Swedish scientist, "but the British insisted upon wearing beards."

Among the 17 men were weather experts who were anxious to investigate theories that the Antarctic territories one and habitable continent.

While probing the climatic history of this little-known area, they tapped out daily weather reports which were picked up in Capetown.

"Your weather forecasts have been so accurate," replied the South African weather bureau. "But we shall be sorry when you leave the Antarctic."

The dreaded winter approached. There was no sun, only a three-hour twilight each day—three eerie hours of strange, deep-frozen pastel colors reflected by an icy horizon.

There was little to do but make preparations for better weather. Some borrowed books from the library run by 30-year-old Alan Reece, assistant geologist, from London. The only other British member was Charles Swithinbank, a glaciologist.

When not "blacked out" by atmospherics a small crowd gathered round the short-wave radio set to hear what was going on in the world.

"No gramophones," Glaever had said before the party had set out. "There was a gramophone on another occasion. The same records over and over again. It was terrible. It got on the men's nerves, and I could have shot holes in it."

Tons of mutton went bad in subzero temperatures, and some of the canned milk could only be chiseled out. So the men found their own delicacies—roast penguin and seal steaks.

"At first, some of us had qualms about eating penguins," one recalled.

"They were such friendly little creatures following us day and night with the same intense curiosity, and amusing us with their antics, but, later, they were just meat on a plate."

Endless, tedious nights produced, as they all knew they would, an air of razor-edged sensitivity among the 17 explorers.

"Even the sound of a man sucking at his pipe or the manner in which he cracks a boiled egg can cause tension in these circumstances," said one, "but there was little friction."

In good weather, later, in 1950, two parties struck out from the base. A sharp lookout was kept for swastika flags said to have been dropped in the area by Nazi fliers in 1939.

Hermann Goering boasted that his airmen had discovered an oasis free from ice and snow with a freak warm climate, and claimed it for Germany.

"We found some spots which were slightly warmer," related Robin, "but if the swastikas were there, they were probably under 15 feet to 30 feet of ice."

Two Britons and a Swede were drowned when their snow car plunged over a precipice in fog. The fourth occupant, a Swedish photographer, swam 250 yards to an ice floe and clung to it for 13 hours.

"I kept the blood circulating by constantly beating and kicking myself," he said.

Cases of winter neuroses, snow blindness and frostbite, and a mysterious disease affecting the paws of the huskies were among the ailments treated by Wilson in his strange surgery.

Why did these men choose to leave the comfort of their homes for the privations of two Antarctic winters? What was the purpose of it all?

Most stressed that they went purely to seek adventure and adventure I found, but for most of the men, the interest in this expedition was purely scientific."

In coldly detached scientific terms, the Royal Geographical Society stated that the aim of the expedition was to "carry out geological, glaciological and meteorological research."

That mission, most people are agreed, was brought to a successful conclusion by 14 living and three dead brave men.

Yukon Population Nearly Doubles In Last Ten Years, Figures Show

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP).—The Yukon, strategically important and on its way back to a new mining heyday, is Canada's fastest-growing area and it's got figures to prove it.

On a percentage basis, the Yukon far outstripped any other area of Canada in the growth of its population between 1941 and 1951, an 85.10 per cent hoist to 9,096 from 4,914.

In sheer numbers that boost was puny compared with, say, Ontario's jump of more than 800,000 in the corresponding period but the fact still stands: the Yukon nearly doubled its population in the last decade.

Why the jump in this land of legends about a gold rush that made the Yukon's 1901 population 27,000 and then collapsed?

Officials cite a number of reasons.

The Alaska Highway has gone through in the last decade, putting the Yukon on a direct road link between Edmonton and Alaska. In the last couple of years another important gravel road has been built northward from Whitehorse into the booming mining district of Mayo, a distance of 250 miles.

Whitehorse has become an important military base in joint Canadian-American plans to defend the north. The air force has a base there. It is the heart of the army's engineering system for maintenance of the Alaska Highway.

The air base was developed during the war as part of the staging route for taking planes to Russia. Now it is a key base in plans to fight off any planes that might come from Russia.

Whitehorse's population has boomed from 754 in 1941 to 2,660. Dawson has dropped from 1,000 to 773.

But, aside from the military, the key to the Yukon's growth is mining. In 1946, for instance, the total value of minerals produced in the Yukon was $1,700,000 nearly all from gold on the Klondike.

In 1950 it was $8,000,000, with gold at $3,500,000, silver at $2,500,000 and lead at $1,900,000. Officials here think the total may hit $12,000,000 for 1951 and keep on going. The heart of this boom is the base-metal mining area around Mayo, between Whitehorse and Dawson.

Korea Breather Vast Aid to Reds

MUNSAN, March 1 (INS).—The Communists have for a second time made a successful military comeback in Korea and their armistice negotiators today were confident to the point of arrogance.

Their comeback from the serious military setbacks of last spring and their precarious situation of last October has shifted the balance of negotiating power.

They already have won through armistice talks almost complete relief from ground pressure, which many Allied officials believe was their prime objective when the talks began.

Vice-Admiral C. Turney Joy, the chief Allied negotiator, gave a cogent summary of the situation when he said:

"We must realize that we are not negotiating from the same position of military strength as we were at the beginning, when the enemy was badly pressed, but from a position of military stalemate."

In the beginning, when Russia suggested armistice talks, the Communist armies in Korea were reeling under a double setback.

BRINK OF VICTORY

They had thrown two massive offensives in the spring. Each had failed. Red losses were tremendous. The Allies, after stopping the North Korean army, appeared on the threshhold of victory over the combined North Korean army and the "Chinese People's Volunteers."

The Allies remembered well that on the Chinese mainland the Communists went into political conferences to end the civil war whenever they wanted a breathing spell to amass power for new strikes against Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists.

They guarded against a similar trap by insisting on the right and necessity of continuing to fight while the armistice talks were under way.

It looks now as though the Allies may not have guarded well enough.

For while the air and sea war continued unabated, the ground war dwindled to a stalemate broken only by raids, patrols and artillery bombardments.

The Allies have learned now that air and sea alone were not enough in Korea and that it took a three-pronged effort of ground with air and sea power to maintain the military advantage that was held in June and gone by January.

"They are militarily prosperous now," one Allied officer said.

Struggle Of Ideas Observed

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP).—External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson today described Communism as a "subtle and insidious doctrine" designed to "subvert from within" and said that ideas as well as military weapons must be used to guard Canada against its influences.

In a statement supporting Canadian Education Week, Canada's top diplomat said Communism, as an ideology, can only be countered successfully by "the truth and the light."

"Our defenses, therefore, must consist of ideas as well as weapons. This makes us realize the significance of the whole educational process today."

Education Week is being observed March 2 to 8, under the sponsorship of 12 national organizations with a combined membership of more than 3,000,000 Canadians.

TWO WAYS

Mr. Pearson, recently appointed chancellor of Victoria College, Toronto, suggested two ways in which education can be directed to promote and defend Canada's way of life:

Educational activities, both in and outside the schoolroom, should be directed to "better understanding among the peoples of the free world of the values of individual liberty and democracy."

Canadians should "acquire a deeper and better appreciation of the principles on which our own society is founded" in order that the principles and aspirations of other free peoples could be understood.

Compensation May Be Raised

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP).—Government steps to boost aid to farmers suffering financial loss because of the foot-and-mouth outbreak likely will be announced early next week, agricultural officials said today.

Steps to be taken will mean that farmers will get a higher payment than previously anticipated for slaughtered animals.

The rate of payment set out in the Contagious Diseases Act is "commercial value," which farmers feel does not cover full loss.

Under the new program to be announced, the government likely will change the meaning of the act from "commercial value" to "actual value."

For example, a farmer whose dairy cow was slaughtered normally would get market prices for dairy cows. However, that would not cover loss, say, in revenue from milk from the animal.

Manitoba Group Asks Freeze Of Cattle Price at Feb. 22 Rate

WINNIPEG, March 1 (CP).—The provincial board of the Manitoba Federation of Agriculture and Co-operation Friday urged the federal government to freeze the price of all live cattle sold for slaughter at levels established on Feb. 22, 1952.

The board also urged at its meeting that these levels be maintained until the seriousness of the present outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease is determined and stability restored to Canadian livestock markets.

J. T. McLean, executive secretary of the M.F.A.C., said the loss to livestock producers from the present United States embargo was of sufficient magnitude to constitute a national emergency.

Meanwhile, the government of Manitoba has requested the federal government to ban all shipments of cattle and swine into the province from western Canada and has asked that a floor price be established on live cattle sold for slaughter.

The requests were made in two telegrams to Federal Agricultural Minister Gardiner Friday night and today.

Today's telegram to Mr. Gardiner said: "The government of Manitoba considers the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease and the consequent drastic reduction in market values, has created a national emergency, and feels that the losses sustained should not be borne wholly by livestock producers, but charged to the economy of the nation."

Market Pens Bare of Cattle

CALGARY, March 1 (CP).—Cattle pens at the Alberta stockyards were empty today but officials said every effort will be made to keep the market going next week.

Today was the first time in many years there were practically no incoming shipments recorded for sale the following week. No market is held Saturdays except during the unusually heavy fall cattle runs.

Livestock commission men are attempting to evaluate the possible future market situation following a week of "hectic" trading. Cattle prices dropped during the week from 3 to 6½ cents a pound.

Import Ban Expected To Be Lifted

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP).—Trade Minister C. D. Howe told the Commons Friday he believes the United States will rescind a ban imposed last August on the import of certain Canadian dairy products.

He said there are "very en senate will adopt legislation eliminating the restrictions, subject of a Canadian diplomatic protest when congress put them into force last year.

For that reason, said Mr. Howe, the government does not plan "in the present circumstances" to retaliate by banning certain American farm products, even though the American act is a "direct" violation of the Canada-U.S. trade agreement.

Mr. Howe made the statement after Percy Wright (C.C.F.-Melfort) asked if a Geneva dispatch, published by The New York Times and reporting Canada was planning such action, was correct.

The minister said the dispatch was erroneous and had given the government much concern.

Mr. Howe spoke shortly before the throne speech debate opened with E. W. George (L.-Westmorland) moving the traditional motion for adoption of an address in reply to the speech, read Thursday at the opening of the new session by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, the new governor-general.

Smoking Stages Awe-Inspiring

LONDON, March 1 (Reuters).—These are the six stages in the life of a smoker, according to a doctor writing in the medical magazine, Practitioner:

Irresistible routine at 30.
Painful addiction at 40.
Cardiovascular poison at 50.
Emphysema, angina or carcinoma at 55.
Death certificate at 60 or after.

County Vote First Test

LONDON, March 1 (AP).—The first representative test of public opinion since the Conservatives ousted Labor in the general election last October will be held throughout England and Wales early in April.

It will extend over a period of a week beginning April 3, when voters go to the polls in triennial elections to determine the make-up of new county councils. They will be followed a month later by the annual elections of borough, urban and rural councils.

Of the 62 county councils in England and Wales, 42 at present are controlled by forces that prefer to be labeled as "independents." Conservatives have a majority on 12 councils and Labor on eight.

In London, party machines are being geared for what is expected to be a fiery campaign. Candidates, particularly the Socialists, have indicated that the battle this time will be fought mainly on national, rather than local and regional issues.

Socialists have been in control of London's County Council since 1934, but in recent years only by the slimmest majority. Three years ago the result ended in a 64-64 deadlock between Labor and Conservatives. Labor subsequently gained the upper hand by winning aldermanic control of county hall. The 21 aldermen are elected the councillors, for a six-year term. Ten retire every election year.

And they called it—
MUNRO STREET
BEHIND THE SIGNS WITH Jim Nesbitt

Munro Street in Esquimalt was named for Alexander Munro, a Hudson's Bay Company official in Victoria's early days.

Born in Scotland in 1824, Munro worked as a bank clerk in London before coming to Vancouver Island in 1857 as accountant and general overseer for the Puget Sound Agricultural Company. In 1872 he entered his congeniality as factor of the Hudson's Bay Company, and two years later was made a chief factor.

When he was settled here Munro sent to England for his wife and family, who arrived at Esquimalt in the sailing vessel Princess Royal in 1859.

After 45 years with the Hudson's Bay Company Mr. Munro retired in 1896 to his fine home at the corner of Michigan and Douglas. He died in 1911 at the age of 87.

Lying Around in Banks

Unwanted $1,500,000 Awaits Owners

OTTAWA, March 2 (CP).—There's an unwanted $1,500,000 tucked away in Canadian bank vaults awaiting claimants.

The money has been lying around for more than five years. Its ownership is divided among thousands of depositors, many of whom have not touched the accounts for 10 years.

By law, the banks regularly report to parliament on the status of all the dormant accounts and the return for the end of 1951 shows the total at $1,548,000.

Most of the money is in small accounts, many of them in the $1.49 or so class.

The hundreds of rows of cold statistics tell nothing of the stories behind the accounts.

Many of the depositors are dead, and no heirs have turned up to claim the balances. Some owners left money behind when they moved from one city to another. Other owners just don't care.

A few relatively large amounts are in the hands of people who are living.

The banks report every account that has not been used for five years. After another five years, the money is transferred to the Bank of Canada.

If the owner or proven heirs don't turn up, the account stays with the central bank forever. But a claimant usually turns up eventually if any respectable sum is involved.

Domestication of reindeer dates from a remote period in the northern areas of Europe.

Raymond Frey Elected President Of College Alma Mater Society

By RANDLE JONES
Victoria College

Last Thursday, Victoria College's 1952-53 Alma Mater Society president was elected. Next year's prexy—Raymond A. Frey—was chosen by preferential ballot cast by 224 students throughout the six hours during which the polls were open.

Twenty-five-year-old Frey, married with one child, served as a wireless operator in the Merchant Marine during the years preceeding his entrance to Vic College.

In his campaign address he emphasized the hope that all controversial issues which might arise next year could be placed before the students clearly and in a manner in which the average student may state his opinion. The two other contenders for the coveted position were Geoff Conway and Stu Beaveridge.

All the candidates for the post were given the opportunity to speak at a rally held at noon Wednesday; unfortunately Stu Beaveridge was confined to hospital at the time and his speech was presented to the collegians through the medium of a tape recording.

FULL LIFE

Frey's life before entering our enrollment has most certainly been a full one. After leaving school on the mainland in 1942, at the age of 15 he was employed by a radio appliance store, Canadian Pacific Airlines, and later CKNW in New Westminster.

In 1944 after gaining his second class radio certificate he went into the merchant service. For two years his source of income was the Dockyard during which time he decided to obtain his matric. To do this it was necessary to take seven courses by correspondence. Ray Frey's Christmas exam results netted a 73% average.

The official voting count showed that 75 per cent of the college's electorate cast their votes. Of these 15 were spoiled. Ray Frey tallied 160 votes; Conway followed with 36, Beaveridge had 13.

The three-day presentation of the George F. Kaufman-Moss Hart comedy as originally scheduled, for last Thursday, Friday and Saturday was postponed one week in respect to the untimely death of Dr. J. M. Ewing, for eight years the respected principal of Victoria College.

Also canceled last week was the sports dance, a combination basketball bounce, shuttle shuffle and soccer soiree, which was to be held next Tuesday in the Sir James Douglas School Annex.

The evening swing-fest, which was plotted to raise sufficient funds with which to send the three aforementioned teams to Vancouver and the C.B.C. open Company.

house has been slated for the week after the mainland invasion, which will be held as originally planned next week-end.

Canceled because of Dr. Ewing's death was the Alma Mater Society meeting set for Friday noon. At this meeting plans for the council money-making subscription campaign were to have been outlined by Harry Hodgins of the McLean-Hunter Publishing

Hobby Show Receives First Entry

By RAY SIDAWAY

April 23, 24 and 25 are the dates set for the fourth annual B.C. Youth Hobby Show at the "Y." Ian Anderson has announced that the first entry has been received and hundreds more are expected. Hobbies ranging from building a model circus of toothpicks to collecting spiders will be featured at the show. Adults are able to enter works in the show, but cannot compete for prizes.

Ten members of the "Y's" leader corps went on a work bee Saturday and the boys retrieved a float that apparently had broken its moorings and floated into a small creek during the winter.

An estimated 150 couples flocked to the Crystal Garden Saturday for the inter-H-Y dance. Russ Potter and his orchestra supplied the musical entertainment.

Track and field stars have been working out strenuously during the winter on the "Y's" indoor track. However they will lose their coach for a while when Bruce Humber leaves for Europe to coach Canada's Olympic track team. Swimmers will also miss Archie McKinnon, who will accompany Humber.

Long Tunnel To Be Built

GENEVA, March 1 (Reuters).—The world's longest highway tunnel, linking France and Italy, is going to be drilled through the solid granite of Europe's highest mountain, 15,781-foot Mont Blanc.

Work on the 7½-mile tunnel will start later this year and is expected to be finished in 1956.

The tunnel is of great importance to western defense for it will bring the industrial centres of Northern Italy closer to Western Europe.

The 26-foot-wide, two-way tunnel will run straight through Mont Blanc with only one slight curve at the French end.

The French entrance will be at the little village of La Dalmaz, situated about 4,500 feet up the mountainside above Chamonix. The Italian end will be at Entreves, near the resort of Courmajeur.

Vic High Rehearsing Play Without Scenery

By SANDY LAWRENCE
Victoria High School

As the stage manager's voice rolls out over the audience you can see the town unfolding before you. There's Main Street with its hitching rails and barber poles, and Mr. Morgan's drug store, where you bought phosphates and on special occasions treated your very best girls to chocolate sodas.

Next door is the general store [illegible] lamps, cracker barrels, cheese, potatoes and licorice candy.

In the Gibbs' household Mrs. Gibbs is hovering anxiously over a pan of baking powder biscuits fresh from the oven.

It is only when T. W. Mayne appears on the stage to change some movement or other that we are brought back to our world of reality.

Unique because it is produced on a stage devoid of scenery, "Our Town" will be produced March 7 and 8.

Recently voted the most popular high school play in the U.S., the Thornton Wilder production revolves around the lives and deaths of two young people who grow up and marry in the little town of Grovers Corners, New Hampshire.

STUDENTS SHOT

For the felon held in the grip of the unrelenting policeman a "mugging" is something to be feared, but to Vic High's graduates-to-be it is the time when the boys will be wearing long-unused neckties and the girls will spend hours mulling over their wardrobes to pick the right dress for the occasion, which is the taking of photographs for the Camosun.

With the bulging muscles and straining backs Vic High's physical culture enthusiasts filled the gym Thursday night and along with other local P.E. groups went through their paces in a display of various branches of physical training, including tumbling, boxwork, gymnastics and folk dancing.

Stirring martial airs boomed throughout Vic High's usually staid corridors Wednesday morning when the Vic High Brass Band, under Mr. Grant, played selections by Franz Lehar for the senior assembly.

Two new vocational fields were opened up to V.H.S. students this week. On Monday a representative of the V.O.N. spoke to the Grade XII girls on careers in nursing.

Dr. Lowell Besley, dean of forestry at U.B.C., spoke to Grade XI and XII boys on building a career in the forests of B.C. Dean Besley explained that forestry work was divided into various classes, each holding promise for eager young men.

Teen Tastes In Clothes

By DEE LAVOIE

One way to come up with a new outfit that's really original is to dust off that almost-forgotten Home Ec training and sew your own. So many of the stylish Sals are doing just that, and getting "original models" at a much-lower price than they'd cost ready-made.

A suit may sound like a mighty ambitious project—and a tailored one definitely is—but there are some that aren't too complicated. F'instance, the kind that has a jacket that can be worn belted in or loose, so doesn't need any exact fitting, or the kind that has a bolero jacket.

As for the skirt—nothing to it (we keep telling ourselves)! Most of the smartest new suits feature straight-cut, very plain skirts with maybe a kick pleat front and back.

Separate skirts, of course, are only an evening's work for the gal who's a whiz with the sewing-machine, and one basic pattern can often be used for several skirts. Those really hard-finished worsted skirts that are showing up all around the campus can be snipped out of only a little more than a yard of material. Economy, we'd call it!

High-fashion fabrics for suits and skirts include grey flannel and the up-and-coming light tweeds. One thing to keep in mind is that finer materials are the easiest to work with. Plaids are also stylish, if you've got the patience to match them at the seams.

DRESS-UPS, TOO

In the way of dress-up togs, what about stitching up a really dressy blouse, maybe velvet or lace, for wear to parties and dances? These can be, and usually are, almost sleeveless and with low neck, so go beautifully with a street-length skirt to a semi-formal do, or make an extra formal in combination with a floor-sweeping skirt. For more sparkle, little rhinestone pins do their bit, while an artificial posy will add a colorful note.

Something new on the list of "evening out" attire are jazzed-up wool jersey blouses, especially the black ones. Sequins and metallic stitching make them right for semi-formal wear with the fullest of taffeta skirts. A cinch to make, as they're usually either sleeveless or have batwing sleeves.

Nicest thing about home sewing is that the bits left over can often be made up into a cute little hat, a draw-string bag or some other accessory to give your outfit an "ensemble" look.

Track Meet S. J. Willis High Point

By HARLENE CHRISTENSEN
S. J. Willis Junior High School

There was not much in the way of news last week. But the spotlight was turned on the inter-house indoor track meet which took place last Tuesday.

The meet was well organized by the teachers, and each event went off one after the other without any delay. Both teachers and students enjoyed themselves as competition was keen.

Each house had its position in the gymnasium, complete with cheer teams and leaders. The points for the various houses in the sprints were: House I, 31 points; House II, 11 points; House III, 12 points. In the relays: House I, nine points; House II, 21 points, and House III, 24 points.

When the points were totaled, it was found that House I won the championship again this year with a total of 40 points. House III was second again with 36 points, and House II last with a total of 32 points. The houses were close with only four points between them. The meet began at 2.45 p.m. and ended at 4 p.m.

GYM DISPLAY

On Thursday evening there was a physical education display at Victoria High School, in which S. J. Willis took part. Demonstrating their skill were the Grade VIII boys' ball-handling skills, the Grade VII boys' mass pyramid building display, and last, but certainly not least, the S. J. Willis majorette corps who put on a very fine display.

The Drama Club is earnestly practising "The Land of the Dragon," in preparation for the coming Drama Festival in March. On Mondays, Thursdays and Fridays, strange roaring-like noises can be heard emerging from our auditorium. Could this be a dragon's voice?

Students to Win Cash By Naming Their Page

For three years during school terms, the high school page has been an important part of The Daily Colonist every Sunday.

During that time it has never been blessed with a distinctive name. To the students of the high schools represented regularly on the page goes the honor of naming the page at this time.

A contest opens today, and will close at Midnight Thursday, March 13. The winning slogan will bring the high school student who submits it $10 in cash to help out on the Easter outfit or for spending money over the holiday.

To the second most popular choice will go $5.

[illegible] The Colonist.

Either a drawing or a name can be entered, and students may make as many submissions as they wish. Entries must bear a postmark of not later than March 13.

If any art work is attempted to set up a suitable name panel, don't worry about the quality of the art work. In all cases, the basic idea will be the determining factor. Colonist artists can supply the finishing touches before publication.

Entries should be addressed to the managing editor.

Boys Probably Sharpest In Table-Tennis Tourney

By DAVE BROWN and ANTHONY GAMBRILL
North Saanich High School

The 1952 table tennis tournament started last Tuesday and will continue for the next three weeks. All last year's champions will be back in action except in the senior girls' division. Dave Peddle and Don Norbury will be defending their senior and intermediate boys' titles, respectively, and Marian Thompson will defend her intermediate girls' crown. The intermediate boys' division promises to provide some of the best play in the entire tournament, with four top-flight boys fighting for the title.

On Feb. 22 a Mothers' Night was held at North Saanich by the students' council. The film presented was "Little Women," and afterward, while the mothers were enjoying refreshments, the students danced to the music of the school orchestra.

For the first time this year North Saanich fell behind Mount Newton in the F. N. Wright competition. Mount Newton took a 15-13 lead, gaining six points from three basketball victories.

On Friday the local intermediate girls dropped a 19-12 encounter at Brentwood to Mount Newton. The losers played well, but the strange floor made the difference. Marian Thompson, Jill Turner and Sylvia Erh each got four points for Saanich.

Mount Newton took the lead Monday by beating Saanich 23-14 in a senior girls' contest at North Saanich. After starting off well the local girls suffered a lapse in the last half to suffer defeat. Top scorers for Saanich were Jackie MacConnachie and Val Head, with four points each.

A game between senior boys of both schools at Brentwood ended in a North Saanich loss. The local boys defaulted the contest after an argument over a referee's decision.

ELIMINATED

At Mount View Tuesday, North Saanich was eliminated from the Island basketball tournament. They dropped a 46-8 decision in the second game of a total-point two-game series to lose the series 84-29. The first game went to Mount View 38-21.

A Saanich was never in the game and the superior Mount View squad was an easy winner. Allan Snowsell led all scorers with 16 points, and Art Olsen and Pat Dalton got three points each for the locals.

Recently four teams from Grades VII and VIII visited Salt Spring for four basketball games. Pat Bay took three of the games, with the boys winning both their fixtures.

This week the scouts and guides who attend North Saanich have been wearing their uniforms in honor of Lord Baden-Powell, the founder of the world-wide scouting movement.

Secret Cheer Practices Give Prison Atmosphere

By ELINOR THOMPSON
Mount View High School

Anybody who visited Mount View last week must have thought it was a prison, not a high school. There were blinds, sacks and anything else available covering the glass doors of many rooms.

Cheerleaders of each house were practicing their cheers for the indoor track meet. The final verdict had Olympics on top, Selkirks second and Cascades trailing. That was just for cheering. Olympics won the meet, too, with 39 points. Cascades and Selkirks had 29 each.

Ann Snowsell, Allan Fatt, Margie Lawson, George Wilmot, Barbara Whitely, Stirling Knudsen and Gary Jones led the Olympic cheers.

Dinah Kerr has been busy all week rounding up talent for the coming Y-Teens assembly to be held early this week. The Y-Teens made and sold house ribbons for the track meet, collecting a fair amount for their treasury.

In a recent tag sale at Mount View, the Red Cross collected $11.05 to buy toys for under-privileged European children.

A contest between Room 1 and Room 2 sprang up during a recent drive for funds for the Solarium. Room 1 came in 45 cents ahead with $9.80. Mount View's objective of $50 was topped by quite a bit.

Square dancing practices culminated Thursday in a display held at Victoria High School by the Victoria Recreation Council. Three squares were entered by Mount View.

The Mount View songsters have been working hard on the operetta this week getting prepared to put the drama part and the singing parts of Act I together next week. Mr. MacFarland has renewed the practice days for boys and girls as there are only a few weeks left before the big night and more practices are needed. Mrs. Fraser has started measuring for costumes and Mrs. Adlem has begun teaching the dancers in the chorus.

Jean McLean, Issabel Whisker and Mary Anderson report that the hot dog sale Friday made a good profit.

Sports for this week have been two games of boys' basketball and one soccer game. The first basketball game was against North Saanich and Mount View won 46-8. Al Snowsell registered 16 points and Pete Winters racked up eight. The second game was played against the Mount Douglas squad and Mount View racked up another win 55-24. Ken Murray and Al Snowsell tied for high scorer with 15 points each. Mount View also won the soccer game against Mount Newton 7-0. Gary Crow got five goals.

Tape recordings were made of the band Friday afternoon to be heard on CKDA's Education Week program. They have been strenuously practicing for the band concert March 6 and 7.

Mount Newton Drama Interest Running High

By BARRIE WHARF
Mount Newton High School

The Drama Club, under the direction of Mrs. M. Sampson, will present "The Queen and Mr. Shakespeare" at the drama festival. The cast is composed of Fred Kockett, Shirley Robinson, Lynn Sheldrake, Ken Curl and Bill Lawton. The student director is Carolyn Sinkinson. The drama club will assist the choral group in the production of an operetta.

The basketball teams have been busy during the last few days. The intermediate girls won their game with North Saanich last Friday, gaining two points for the F. N. Wright trophy. Mount Newton's lineup was: Valerie Bate, Rene Heal, Opal Combs, Sylvia Pears, Lois Richardson, Gloria Pope, Joanne Gale and Shirley Cannon.

The senior girls scored another win for Mount Newton on Monday to put Mount Newton ahead in the Wright Cup race for the first time this year. Girls taking part in the game were: M. Curl, 6; S. Lomas, 4; Edna Gait, 2; C. Sinkinson, 4; Anne Maher, J. Butler, 6; and Gwen Higgs.

LEAD LOST

The lead gained by the girls was lost when the intermediate boys played the North Saanich intermediates and were beaten 21-13. Members of the team were Victor Loudail, Alex Heatherington, Dave Cruikshank, Don Robinson, Dave Hancock and Jim Creed.

The senior boys have been knocked out of the basketball tournament by Oak Bay. They lost both games by a large margin. For the second game, which was played at Oak Bay on Tuesday, Mount Newton's lineup was: R. Westoby, 16; K. Curl, 11; B. Tubman, 8; Hafer, 14; D. Tregear, 8; B. Richardson, 1; E. Moore and D. Hancock, 4.

P.T.A. to Go to School For Student's-Eye View

By SHIRLEY HALLMARK
Esquimalt High School

Esquimalt P.T.A. members on Tuesday evening, will get an inside look at high school life, as their contribution to education week. They will turn back the clock and become students again for a couple of hours. With experience, parents will learn how the modern school operates, by attending classes, assemblies, counselling appointments, P.E. periods, music classes and everything in general. This will be accurate in every detail, including obtaining an admittance slip if they come late for classes. This is an opportunity for the parents to meet the Esquimalt High School staff, see the remodeled school, and have an interesting and entertaining evening.

D. F. McRae of the Moody Institute of Science Films, visited the school Thursday morning to show the highly interesting film, "Hidden Treasure," with sound and in natural color.

Eight students represented E.H.S. in the physical education program in Victoria High gym Thursday evening. It featured demonstration of actual classroom activities, as conducted in our schools today. Sonya Mortimer, Mardie Bell, Pat Caley, Ann Deakin, Laurie Dodd, Tom Williams, Bryan Mee and Roy Byfield, under the direction of P.E. Instructress Mrs. L. Clark, ably performed their recreational square dances.

J. Barlow, a member of the staff, presented the Pitch-Wooing Cup to Val Jeanes and Ken Harrison at the leap year dance Friday evening. A large milk can suitably inscribed was the major prize, with small duplicates going to the winning couple. Girls' Y-Teens were in charge of arrangements, which included for the first time a four-piece student orchestra.

Thursday afternoon Dockers won the right to represent Esquimalt High in the inter-high basketball tournament for the Colonist Cup, by defeating Milnes Landing 51-29 to take the series by an 83-55 margin. Supporters turned out in full force for the first major game in the new gymnasium. Dockers led all the way. Dobbie netted 18 points for Dockers and Hansen sank 12 for the visitors.

SINGAPORE, Malaya, March 1 (Reuters)—A band of 20 guerrillas Friday killed Alastair Murray Lees, 38, a Scottish mechanical engineer working at a tin mine. Lees and a Malay constable were killed by a burst of rifle fire from ambush which racked their car.

Oak Bay Teams Back From Langley Wins

By BRIAN SMITH
Oak Bay High School

Hospitality in a big way was the keynote when Oak Bay's rep rugby and basketball teams invaded Langley Prairie last week-end. Although they lost the rugby match 25-0 and the basketball game 56-16, the Langley students were perfect hosts.

They provided billets for all the invading athletes and went out of their way to be friendly and to show their guests a good time.

Friday night a gala welcoming dance was held for the Oak Bay boys in the ultra-modern Langley High School.

The following afternoon was highlighted by the rugby game, after which the boys went on a tour of local points of interest, including historic Fort Langley. That evening they were guests of honor at a banquet held at the school. The basketball game followed and the evening concluded with a private party held for members of both teams.

Many thanks are due to the Langley students' council and staff members who arranged the wonderful week-end, and especially to Wink Vogel, an ex-Oak Bay student whose efforts were largely responsible for the success of invasion.

GRACIOUS HOSTS

The 26 athletes and staff members J. Wallace, D. Oliver and E. Costain will long remember their gracious mainland hosts and will be hoping that a Langley invasion of Oak Bay can be made possible sometime this month.

Also back from the mainland are four Oak Bay delegates who attended the girls' H-Y conference in Vancouver last week-end.

Syvia Ditchburn and Jim Sharp were chosen to represent Oak Bay at the fifth annual High School Conference held at the U.B.C. campus March 7 and 8, and will present a complete report to the student body on their return.

Oak Bay's rep badminton team hosted Mount View successfully in a shuttle exhibition match, winning the match 15 sets to 3 for its second straight victory.

Chosen as the most promising prospects of the recent square dancing instruction, 24 Grade X students demonstrated their skills in the school physical education display held Thursday evening at Victoria High.

Coming attraction at Oak Bay is the spring concert scheduled for next week end.

A near record crowd attended the ever-successful "Corduroy Capers" held Friday night at the school. Decorations and organization were handled capably by the journalism staff while Derry Simpson couldn't have made a better master of ceremonies. Far superior to scratchy records, the "Hi-Hats" jazz quintette gave the evening that final touch of perfection.

Oak Bay was the scene of much jubilation Friday night when the unpredictable rep basketball squad dumped the Vic High Totems on the losers' floor. This gave the Bays some revenge for a 47-37 defeat on Thursday at the hands of the same Totems. The rep hoopsters also showed good form earlier in the week when they defeated Mount Newton 85-54 to win the two-game total-point series 143-79, thus assuring themselves of a berth in the forthcoming Island tournament.

Academy Girls Celebrate Mardi Gras

By PATRICIA BURNETT
St. Ann's Academy

Social, sports, and class activities kept St. Ann's pupils busy this week. On Tuesday Grade XII entertained Grade XI at a colorful Mardi Gras party. The girls enjoyed games and dances in the streamer and balloon-fested cafeteria. Highlight of the afternoon was a paper hat contest won by Kathleen Pember's "teapot." The only thing lacking was a Mardi Gras parade, but refreshments made up the loss by including "floats."

Tuesday evening, as guests of the Victoria College Newman Club, many of the girls attended a Mardi Gras dance at the Queen of Peace Hall.

Monday, many parents and pupils enjoyed the concert-comedy staged by St. Ann's Parents' Auxiliary. "Romeo and Juliet," reproduced by Grade I, was the hit of the program.

On the sports scene, our badminton team won by a narrow margin in last Saturday's game with Nanaimo. This week end our guests at the academy will be Little Flower Academy's team from Vancouver.

C. Lyons of the B.C. Parks and Recreation Board was guest speaker this week at the academy, where he spoke and showed a film on Tweedsmuir Park.

Grade XII was privileged to have Sister Miriam Theresa, supervisor of St. Joseph's Villa, teach their health unit on tuberculosis. Sister's many booklets on the subject were an added source of information.

Red Cross Sponsoring Student Essay Contest

Eight prizes, ranging from $10 to $1 will be given by the Victoria City and District Branch, Canadian Red Cross Society for the best essays of between 100 and 200 words written by students of Greater Victoria School Board schools in the next two weeks.

The subject must be centred on the Red Cross, its meaning and its work.

Essays must be sent to the school board offices by March 15.

In addition to first prize of $10, a second of $6 and a third of $4 as well as five consolation awards of $1 each will be distributed.

CIGARETTES—20 FOR 25¢?

Throughout Canada, we have the privilege of supplying cigarettes and tobacco products to several thousand neighborhood stores.

Now that the Federal government has seen fit to make it illegal for distributors or manufacturers to protect the already ridiculously slim margin of profit allowed to tobacco dealers, we thought the public might be interested in the following figures:

Date of Price Change	SPLIT OF CONSUMER PRICE PER PACKAGE OF 20
	"A" Government	"B" Trade	"C" Consumer
April 19, 1918	12¢	13¢	25¢
May 24, 1922	18½	16½	35
June 14, 1922	15½	12½	28
May 17, 1923	12½	12½	25
Nov. 7, 1932	9	11	20
Sept. 18, 1939	11¼	10¾	22
July 8, 1940	13½	11½	25
June 24, 1942	17½	11½	29
March 2, 1943	21½	11½	33
Dec. 1, 1947	21½	13½	35
Dec. 29, 1949	21½	14½	36

Oct. 1, 1951	25¼	16¾	42

Provincial Taxes Extra Where Applicable

The term "trade" is used to include the grower, labour, manufacturer, distributor, jobber, retailer, transportation company, advertising company, box manufacturing company—in fact, everyone who is in any way connected with the manufacture, processing, distribution, packaging or advertising of cigarettes.

In addition to the special tax shown in column "A", the Federal government collects the usual corporation taxes, income taxes, and other taxes out of the trade share shown in column "B". We estimate that when all the taxes paid by the tobacco industry are taken into consideration, the Federal government gets over thirty cents out of the retail price of 42c.

Note that your neighbourhood store (and everyone else in the tobacco business in Canada) handles and finances the total amount of government tax on cigarettes for nothing. He is in effect an unpaid tax collector to the extent of over 60% of his dollar cigarette sales.

If your neighbourhood store is making a NET profit of half a cent a package on the cigarettes he sells you, he is conducting an extremely efficient operation. Remember, that in earning this half a cent he has to stay open long hours, sometimes Sundays and holidays, he has to finance the heavy government tax and absorb the loss himself if there is a burglary or if the stock is rendered unsaleable through water or fire damage.

We submit that it is about time that the Canadian smoker and the neighbourhood store who serves him is given a break, by way of removal of the inequitable and discriminatory tax on cigarettes.

The Canadian smoker could buy his cigarettes at 25c a package if the Canadian government would be satisfied with 8c a package special tax (plus all the usual corporation, income, and other taxes). The United States Federal government cigarette tax is 8c a package.

IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO BUY YOUR CIGARETTES AT 25c, WRITE A LETTER TO THE FEDERAL MEMBER FOR YOUR CONSTITUENCY AND ASK FOR HIS HELP IN GETTING THE TAXES REDUCED TO THE AMERICAN LEVEL, OR FILL IN THE COUPON BELOW AND MAIL IT TO HIM. DO IT NOW.

Date .....

I strongly object to the unreasonable tax on Canadian Cigarettes and Tobacco.

If the Federal government sincerely wants to reduce the cost of living, I think they should reduce this tax to 8c so that the Canadian consumer can buy his cigarettes at 20 for 25c.

As my representative for this constituency, please present my views to the Federal government.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG, March 1 (CP)—Prices showed a firm trend today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange in sympathy with upturns in United States markets.

Moderate commercial demand included light shipper purchases in oats and barley. American demand also came out in barley. Processors picked up flax, while rye attracted some United States buying.

There was no information available on export wheat loadings.

Class 2 wheat and I.W.A. prices were unchanged from yesterday.

Price Softens On Aluminum

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—Soft spots were reported developing in the aluminum market last week. The United States was preparing to drop all major restrictions on the use of lead.

Chile was reported seeking a boost of six cents a pound in the price of copper exported to the U.S. The price at present is 27½ cents.

Major metal prices:

Copper—24.50 cents a pound, delivered. Foreign, 27.50 cents, New York.

Aluminum—19 cents a pound, ingots, shipping point. Pigs, 18 cents.

Silver—88 cents an ounce, New York; 77 pence, London.

Markets Reflect Bad News

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—The pressure of political troubles abroad and economic woes at home combined to keep the stock market depressed this week.

This is the fifth straight week that the market has shown a net loss since it attained a 21-year peak late in January.

The loss this week was comparatively small, only 30 cents as measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks. The market was a speck higher Saturday with the average advancing 20 cents at $98.10.

Low volume of business was the most marked aspect of trading. Every day the volume was less than the average so far this year.

The process of selectivity today fastened on the gold mine stocks and sent them ahead smartly.

Along with the golds there was good action by rails, oils and utilities. With the AP average up 20 cents at $98.10, the industrial component gained 20 cents, and the rails and utilities 10 cents each.

Volume was 460,000 shares as compared with 530,000 a week ago.

There were 724 individual issues on the tape with 280 ahead and 213 declining. There were five new highs and eight new lows for the year.

Late Rally

TORONTO, March 1 (CP)—A sudden surge of support sent gold prices soaring on the stock market Saturday.

The final-minute wave of buying pushed the exchange's closing index of 20 selected issues up more than two points.

Industrials were the only losers in the half-day session, slipping steadily from a weak opening.

Volume was about 1,344,000 shares.

The industrial section was propped by slight gains in papers and steels. Agricultures, banks, manufacturing companies, retail stores and miscellaneous industrials were firm. Utilities, foods and liquors posted losses to pull the index lower.

Enthusiastic trade carried western oil prices higher.

Base metals were pulled up after a mid-session slump.

Highest gains on the gold list were turned in by Macleod.

Trade Slow

MONTREAL, March 2 (CP)—Under extremely slow trading, stock prices were dull and trendless Saturday on the Montreal Stock Exchange and Curb Market.

Industrials, papers, utilities, senior metals and senior oils were narrowly mixed. Beverages and banks were mainly unchanged while carriers remained idle. Steels were steady to a trifle firmer.

Simpson's "B" was the main point-getter in the half-day session and rose to a new high of 36¼, a gain of 5¼ points. Bathurst "A" was up two points at 49.

Mines were narrow and mixed in a dull and almost featureless session. Western oils showed signs of firmness at the close.

Industrials had a turnover of 15,700 shares traded and mines had a turnover of 181,600 shares.

Deal on Bonds Canceled As Pointless

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP)—A 1946 agreement designed to hold down chartered banks' investments in Government of Canada bonds to a certain limit has been canceled, Finance Minister D. C. Abbott announced today.

The reason is that the banks have bought far fewer government bonds than it was thought they would when the agreement was signed.

The agreement provided that the banks would limit holdings of government bonds to not more than 90 per cent of their savings deposits and would restrict earning on such investments in excess of their operating costs on savings deposits to a moderate profit margin.

Since 1946 there has been a marked change in the banking situation, said Mr. Abbott.

"The banks' loans and non-government securities have risen and their holdings of government bonds have declined. Ratios of government bonds to savings deposits have therefore declined sharply and at the present time the average ratio for all banks is about 56 per cent as compared with 82 per cent in 1946 and the permitted limit of 90 per cent."

Canada's chartered banks had operating earnings of $315,800,000 and operating expenses of $266,200,000 in the 1951 fiscal year, according to an annual return tabled in parliament.

Biscuit Firm Closing

VANCOUVER, March 1 (CP).—The National Biscuit Company, employing between 200 and 300 persons in its Vancouver factory, with an annual payroll of more than $400,000 is to close down the plant.

ON THE LINE

by BOB CONSIDINE

International News Service Staff Writer

HAVANA March 1 (INS) — Took in one of the world's oldest sports down here the other day. It is cock fighting and you can have it. How it has survived and flourished since pre-christian times baffles me to bits.

The chance of two malevolent chickens poking out each other's eyes and cutting the opposition to ribbons of razory little spurs waxed on to their gaffs is a sport somehow escapes me. It isn't a very appetizing sight either to see the gusset slitting and assorted gore of other pleasures of the sport.

The cockfight is fast in this country. It keeps the people at figuratively as it literally kills the roosters. Especially the tight little mob that circled the pit at the swank "Club Gallistico de La Habana," where I watched a few fights.

The Full Treatment

Each fight was excitedly broadcast over a Havana radio station by a smooth-talk man who could talk several times faster and with a more potent breath than any sports announcer I have ever heard. [illegible] cockfight odds.

But the most interesting part of the show is the betting. It is one and sometimes [illegible] amounts of money change hands. How it is kept track of must be rated as one of the greatest mysteries of the Caribbean. The odds can change fifty or a hundred times during the short course of a fight and a man may wind up with bets that vary from 20 to 1 to 1 to 20. He may have both chickens and at a second succession of prices.

But there appeared to be no disputes at pay off time. My host, a Cuban who raises fighting cocks, bet $3,000 on two of his birds. One he had imported from Spain and especially fancied. But when it was handed and had its spinal column partly severed and was nearly dead, it cackled the few equivalent of "Tell with this" and quit. So my host ordered it killed and given to the poor, who need especially strong teeth to combat such gifts.

There was another fight which for compressed savagery and instinctive skill I had never seen at Madison Square Garden. After perhaps ten minutes both cocks seemed on the brink of whatever heredity is required for what John Kieran calls gamecock courage. But one struggled feebly. The other, [illegible] again, the little wonder wail enclosing the pit.

Just Making Certain

Entered then a man with a tin hour glass. When it had measured a minute he ordered the cocks put in small plastic cells, separated by a [illegible] plastic barrier. The one whose last remaining ounce of life was still truculent tried to get through the shield.

Two were removed and the trainer (yes, trainer) of the reluctant cock [illegible] what had been a head. It is dangerous to do [illegible] "fighting cocks" as they are. Two or three pounds [illegible] their regular veins or some such [illegible]. But [illegible] was not fighting.

The trainer then [illegible] the two cocks' heads together while the man held the hour glass and those who had bet on the reluctant cock screamed for him to show some fight. But nothing happened and the old gaffer lost decisively.

These things have been going infinitely older than those of our thoroughbred horses. The average cock has no more than two or three fights during his career. By that time he is either a dead or the battered honorable enough so that he is patched up for breeding purposes.

Instinctive Strategists

They seem to sense that they're fighting for their lives when they go at each other. There have been well-remembered birds who would run like craven things around and around the pit until the triumphant pursuer let down his guard. Then the pursued would whirl like lightning and dice the throat of the pursuer.

There are tabbies and staggers, fancy dans and clumsy oafs, brave and cowardly. But all fight instinctively. Some experts believe that they fight essentially because each fighting cock wants to rid the earth of all others, so that he can have all the hens.

This've been at it longer than historians can record. Themistocles, while moving his Greecian forces against the Persians, stopped his men so that they could witness two cocks fighting along the roadside.

Observe, he said, the valor and obstinacy of the feathered warriors. Do likewise. Well Mac they did. Cock fighting became a national sport in Greece, was picked up by the Romans, taken to Alexandria, Asia Minor and Spain. The game reached Britain before the birth of Caesar. Henry VIII had a cockpit in his Westerham Palace. A book on cockfighting, "Pleasures of Princes," was a best seller in 1614.

I would quote from it and continue this dissertation. But for all I know, you may be eating.

Doubt Russians Will Enter Olympics Unless Sure of Winning Gold Medals

Will Russia participate in this summer's Olympic Games at Helsinki? The Russians have said they would but Western authorities still are not too sure just what the Soviets will do. The following article by International News Service London Bureau Manager Charles A. Smith reflects the feelings on this question in Helsinki from which he has just returned.

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, March 1 (INS) — The Soviet decision to use the Olympic organizing committee has just announced that Russia [illegible] Olympics in Helsinki and enter all events.

Western experts welcome the Russian statement but still have some doubts as to just what Soviet intentions are with regard to the international games.

Although members of the Finnish organizing committee are [illegible] Red officials to come the Russians will [illegible] their own flag in the same [illegible] the last possible moment before the contest [illegible] speed heads to the various events.

Moscow is not expected to put its athletes against the worlds best unless it is confident of winning some gold medals.

STAY AT PORKKALA

And few persons connected with the games believe the Russians will permit their athletes to become "contaminated" by too close association with the West by allowing them to live in the official Olympic village. The Russian statement, however, said the Red athletes would be quartered in the village.

[illegible] Olympic officials and reporters within [illegible] Russians will house their competitors at Porkkala, the [illegible] naval base only 15 miles from Helsinki leased to Russia under the Russo-Finnish peace treaty.

It is this foreboding possibility of Russian games and [illegible] Olympics with mixed emotions.

FINNS ON SPOT

On one hand, presence of Russian athletes for the first time since the Soviet revolution would be the biggest thing for Finnish sport since [illegible] Olympics.

On the other hand, Finnish [illegible] fear that [illegible] Olympics with the Russians [illegible] the Olympic [illegible] Olympics [illegible] Olympics [illegible] Olympics

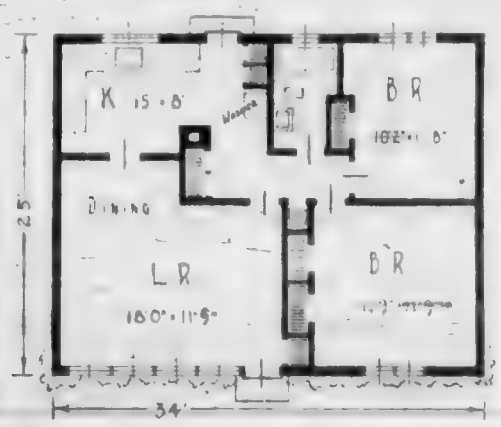
Modern Ranch House Design

All the glamour of the modern ranch house has been captured in this design, No. [illegible] which even with the attached garage is less than 50 feet wide. Outside walls are cedar shingle painted soft grey, while roof shelters and doors are green. Area is [illegible]. Whole [illegible] is [illegible] casing to the eave. One wall of the living room is of stratified pine which adds a distinctive decorative touch.



Plan includes a tiny basement, just big enough to hold an oil-burning space heater under the centre hall, accessible through a trap door. Without garage house contains less than 13,000 cubic feet.

Paint Styling Pays Off For Older-Type Houses

A new house should be styled to suit its architecture and to be in harmony with its surroundings. Has this been done? If not, perhaps that paint styling can achieve the most striking results.

Here are some ideas to be applied to styling a repainting job. Stand your house carefully. Does it seem to be too high for its length? Paint the roof a darker color. Dark roofs seem to sink lower to the ground.

If the house has shutters paint the shutters of the upper story the same color or tone as the roof. This will visually bring the roof line lower as the eye will travel to the bottom of the dark shutters. Paint the remaining shutters the color of the body of the house.

Does your house have a roof line and upwards too many gables? Everything about a mansard roof should be dark. Nothing should stick out in color. No dormer. No stacks. No chimneys.

The longest and straightest lines on a many-gabled house are the lines nearest the ground. Feature the front door. Feature the shutters on the lower floor only so that the eye does not unconsciously lift above the first floor, but is held at the point where the [illegible] are [illegible].

TOO MUCH?

Do the dormers in your house project too much or not enough? Dormers can make a small house seem larger by being painted on their [illegible] color of the side wall of the house thus carry the side wall color up into the roof and greater the appearance of additional height. Dormers on a tall house should be painted the dark roof color, making [illegible] seem lower.

Is your chimney wall the protruding type that is visible from the outside as it comes from ground to roof? If so is it too large for the size of the house? Large chimneys are large at their base, if anywhere. To appear smaller they should be painted the same color as the body of the house. This will blend with it and their size will not be noticed.

Do protruding chimneys of your house seem too small and weak looking? Use same color for bounding the chimney with the house appears to smaller.

SAME COLOR

Window [illegible] of different sizes should be painted the same color as the body of the house [illegible] the units of its overall shape.

Where a color [illegible] is needed to lower the roof [illegible] to drop attention to the [illegible] floor of the house [illegible] ters help to achieve this result.

If [illegible] shutters and [illegible] of the [illegible] size.

A dark [illegible] door on a [illegible] a light colored door [illegible] house . . . gives a welcoming note.

These are just a few of the things "paint styling" can do for your house. The [illegible] use the dark colors [illegible]. You must remember that light colors always help to make things look larger. Dark colors help to make things [illegible] or warm [illegible] lets changes [illegible] greens [illegible] seem to bring things [illegible] cool colors [illegible] blues [illegible] bring things [illegible] warm [illegible]

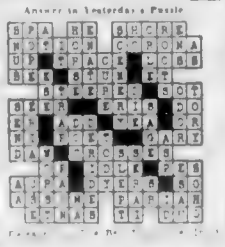
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Syrup, at Home

You'll be surprised how quickly a bad winter cough can be relieved when you try this well known recipe ... used throughout Canada. It's no trouble to mix and costs ... a trifle.

Into a 16 ounce bottle pour 2 ounces of Pinex, then fill it with granulated sugar syrup to make ... ounces. It's easily made using ... cups of sugar and ... water ... a few moments until ... No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey instead of sugar syrup. This makes four times ... much cough medicine for your money. Never spoils and tastes fine.

Quickly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the phlegm, begins to clear the air passages, and soothes the irritated membranes. This explains why it brings such quick relief.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat irritations. Money refunded if it does not please you in every way.

Golden Bug Automobile Worth Weight in Gold

LONDON, March 1 (NANA-Kemnews)—Largest, most expensive, most exclusive and oddest automobile in the world bears the somewhat dubious monniker of the Golden Bug.

This nickname has nothing to do with the insect world it's short for the surname of the giant car's designer and builder, Ettore Bugatti.

This juggernaut on balloon tires is 20 feet six inches long and seven feet wide. Its rarity comes about because, between 1927 and 1933, only eight were turned out; thereafter, none.

No one is quite sure where the first seven are, or who owns them now, but the eighth and best belongs to Jack Lemon Burton of North London. And plenty of Americans have tried to buy it.

Golden, indeed, is this bug, for it cost the original owner, Capt. C. W. Foster, an Englishman, £65,000 when a pound sterling was a pound ($4.86). After it had been laid up during the Second World War, Burton acquired it in 1946.

Burton doesn't often drive the car. He feels the streets are getting a little too crowded for it.

On top of that it would cost him $5.60 a week in tax alone, for the engine is 77 h.p. The whole [illegible] weighs three tons and [illegible] about six miles to the gallon, if driven carefully.

DARNDEST CAR

On the owner's invitation reporters went to see it and learn its history. Eight strong men manhandled the machine out of its garage, roughly the size of a hangar, reverently took off the dust sheets, and there it stood in all its glory — the darndest car you ever saw.

Burton said that the story of the car really went back to a day in 1927 when the late Bugatti, probably a genius among car designers, was seized by a strange whim. After a lifetime devoted to making small racing and sports cars, this Italian, whose factory was at Molsheim, Alsace, decided that he could build a passenger car that would make the Mercedes, the Rolls-Royces and the Daimler look like runabouts.

The result was the Bugatti Type 41, or the Golden Bug, or, simply, La Royale.

As Ettore, then in late middle life, described his brainchild to his associates and disciples, they began to fear the worst, but old man Bugatti, though beginning to be a little eccentric, was not commercially unsound. He deliberately limited the output of his new production, and so made it the most exclusive car ever.

King Carol of Rumania bought one; Zog of Albania another. A third went to Albert of Belgium, and Alfonso of Spain had to have one, too. Thus the car gained its name "La Royale."

ROYAL RANKS

When Burton joined such royal ranks, Foster's Golden Bug was in pretty good trim, but needed new tires. When the Germans seized the Bugatti Works at Molsheim, they had peevishly destroyed the molds from which the tires for the outsize wheels were made, but the resourceful Burton got his tires. He bought three surplus American cannon, mounted on giant pneumatics.

What did he do with the guns when he had stripped them of the wheels? "Oh, we threw the cannon away," said Burton.

Taking stock of his acquisition, Burton discovered some fantastic things about it. For instance, in the hub of the steering wheel was set a superb Breguet eight-day stop watch. This trifle alone cost cost Ettore £85, and he threw it in as a gesture to his customers.

On each spoke of the steering wheel was a separate button for the car's two horns. Only a genius would have thought of that labor-saver.

The brake drums were about as large as the wheels of a modern truck. Despite this, braking was a little uncertain.

Meeting this criticism at the time of La Royale's inception, its creator had said magnificently: "I build my cars to go, not to stop." Similarly, when it was pointed out to Bugatti that the car didn't start at all well in cold weather, he remarked, simply: "Very well, get a heated garage."

GAUGE FASCINATES

The most fascinating instrument, said Burton, is the gasoline gauge, the needle of which moves about as fast downward when motoring as it does upward when the 40-gallon tank is being replenished.

Another gadget is a lamp which glowed red when the royal owner sitting in the back wished to inform his chauffeur that he was about to come thorugh to him on the car's house phone.

Bottom gear is approximately equal to top gear on a medium-sized modern car, and in it the car travels from zero to 35 m.p.h. In second gear it ranges from 5 m.p.h. to 90 m.p.h. and in top up to 120 m.p.h. Only on one or two occasions has Burton had her in top.

"Even in second gear," said Burton, "driving La Royale is quite an experience."

For example, you have to adopt a studied technique in negotiating right-angled bends. Take too wide a sweep, and the car's immense wheelbase lands you anywhere but where you want to be.

On the open road, the snag is that drivers of oncoming vehicles don't realize, until the last moment, that the car is half as wide again as a normal vehicle.

Despite these idiosyncrasies, Burton is much attached to his car, and he is not at all sure yet that he will allow it to go to America. He is playing cagy with 30 or so Americans who have written offering to buy it.

There are many other fine Bugatti cars in Burton's garage—he once kept a fleet of five racing "bugs"—but La Royale transcends them all.

"She sort of grows on you," said Burton.

Drive Starts Tomorrow

City, Municipal Leaders Urge Red Cross Support

Support for the Victoria City and District Branch Canadian Red Cross campaign for $68,500 was urged by Greater Victoria civic and municipal leaders today, on the eve of the drive which starts tomorrow with flag-raising ceremonies on the Causeway at 8.55 a.m.

From Mayor Claude L. Harrison came the following message:

"The Canadian Red Cross in Victoria is daily playing a more and more important part in the lives of our citizens, particularly the blood transfusion service.

"Though its works are seldom 'headlined,' the Red Cross stands ready at all times to render assistance to those in need in peace and war, flood and disaster.

"In view of this and the fact that such services, supported by voluntary contributions, require funds to carry on the work, I feel the Red Cross appeal for funds is deserving of the utmost support which our citizens can afford."

OAK BAY SUPPORT

Reeve P. A. Gibbs called for Oak Bay's support in the following words:

"Annually at this time of the year we are reminded of Red Cross, one of the great humanitarian services; a service comparable with that of the church which relieves the dispirited, and with that of the medical profession's service in relieving bodily ailments.

"The Red Cross Society functions to relieve distress, and well we know how capably it has performed, when confronted with emergencies such as floods, earthquakes, mine disaster, and holocaustic conflagrations; it functions in peace and war.

"Today we are vitally concerned with preparations for civil defense, and the Red Cross Society will undoubtedly fulfill its time-honored obligation to cope with emergency if we meet with disasters.

"The current appeal for funds should receive the enthusiastic endorsation and open-hearted response of every citizen when the campaign collector calls."

EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE

Saanich's Reeve Joseph Casey expressed his confidence in his municipality's response as follows:

"I think the Red Cross performs a wonderful mission. It is my hope that Saanich citizens will join everyone else in a generous response to the current campaign. It is the least we can do to show our appreciation for the service the Red Cross provides."

Similarly, Reeve A. C. Wurtele carried the appeal to Esquimalt:

"In a municipality such as ours, so closely connected with the services, the Red Cross story needs little repetition. It is well known and wherever it is known, it is admired and respected. In peace and in war, from the blood transfusion service, to the international emergency measures it takes in case of disaster, the Red Cross has earned that esteem which can be shown this month through contributions to its campaign for funds."

MAIN APPEAL

Preliminary approaches to prospective donors have already been made by Walter Fletcher and Ralph B. Mathews, co-chairmen of the special names committee.

The main appeal, however, will be carried to the public tomorrow and during the remainder of the month. A week after Victoria's drive gets under way, it will be joined by the B.C. and national campaigns.

One of the features of opening day will be the lighting campaign planned by the Red Cross Corps under Mrs. R. Thistle in James Bay. As in other years the corps will attempt to cover the entire locality in the one day's efforts. For those absent when canvassers call, return visits will be paid by the workers.

Heifetz Donates Music Collection

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP)—Jascha Heifetz has turned over a collection of autographed musical scores, letters and manuscripts of compositions to the Library of Congress. Among the original manuscripts are compositions by Dinicu, Sir Edward Elgar, Joseph Achron, and others commissioned by Heifetz.

Corncobs May Prove Source Of Silk Gowns for Milady

WASHINGTON, March 1—Corncobs may be woven into silken gowns. The vast waste production of American farms represented by the hitherto essentially unusuable cobs long has been a problem for department of agriculture chemists.

From them can be extracted furfural, an oily liquid having the odor of bitter almonds. One use after another has been developed for this furfural, mostly quite minor.

Quite different is the latest development just reported by the department. From furfural, chemists at the northern regional laboratory report can be made a chemical which is a necessary step in the manufacture of nylon.

"This," said their report, "is of particular interest because it represents the first large-scale utilization for furfural that actually becomes part of a product for sale to the consuming public."

The past uses found have been quite highly specialized, but prospectively a brilliant future lies ahead for the despised cob. From the laboratory's work, said the report, have come processes for the conversion of furfural into new, as well as previously known chemicals from which vitamins, antimalarial drugs, essential amino acids and plastics can be synthesized.

REACTION PRODUCTS

Most recent methods have been developed whereby simple reaction products of furfural can be converted by treatment with hydrogen and water into compounds resembling glycerin in many chemical and physical properties.

Treatment of these products resulted in a series of new compounds which may find use as lubricants for aircraft instruments, as high-quality plasticizers for cellulose-acetate films, or as compounds of hydraulic fluids useful in automobiles or airplanes.

Further processing reactions easily can result in the synthesis of hundreds of new chemicals. These developments promise not only an eventually highly profitable use of corncobs, but of oat, cottonseed and rice hulls. These also contain considerable amounts of furfural.

Some compounds, the report said, already have found a limited use in synthetic-rubber production. It begins to look, however, as if the pile of corncobs may become one of the farm's best assets.

High-Powered Alcohol Blamed in Shooting

MADISON, Wis., March 1 (INS). — Drinking of 190 proof laboratory alcohol was blamed by police today for a University of Wisconsin campus shooting that left on chemistry student wounded and another in the Dane county jail.

The victim of Friday's wild shooting spree in the laboratory of the chemistry building is William Erickson Loeb, 26.

Held in jail was Leonard Stalmann, 32, of Baltimore, Md., an honor student.

Belated Dance Honors St. Valentine

By SINCLAIR ASH
Belmont High School

On Friday evening students flocked joyfully into the auditorium of dear old Belmont High to attend the Valentine dance, which had previously been postponed because of the death of King George VI. Although it was a wee bit late, the 14th being a couple of weeks ago, no one seemed to mind and the evening was a great success.

The week of March 3 seems hardly sufficient time in which to pay tribute to our education system, but, nevertheless, this is the period designated Education Week.

Here at Belmont High School preparations have been made for activities to promote interest in education. The theme of Education Week this year is "Education—Everybody's Business." Following up this idea, the parents of Belmont High students and anyone else who is interested are invited to visit the school any time during the week, with special emphasis on Wednesday, because of two student activities—a mock parliament and a discussion by the students of Grade X, entitled "Education—the Student's Business."

At 8 p.m. Wednesday there will be a meeting at the school. Speakers will be Inspector J. Brown of the Department of Education, representing the teaching profession; E. Emery, chairman of the board, discussing school facilities; G. Mitchell, discussing the community and the home; A. Main, giving the present viewpoint of the business world. Each talk is expected to last 10 to 15 minutes, followed by an open discussion period. Climax of the evening will be a tour through the school, ending in the home economics department, where tea will be served.

Pinup Girls Of Russia Prove Flop

BERLIN, March 1—(NANA-KEMNEWS)—Russia's film pinup girls are a flop with Eastern German audiences. Their unpopularity has cost the official Russian film-export agency, "Sovexportfilm Ltd.," $2,750,000 during the last year.

Public-opinion polls show that the Eastern German cinema public stays away from theatres where Russian movies are shown because of unattractive, insipid Russian "film stars" with bad makeups and 1930 hair styles.

Most big theatres in the Russian zone are compelled to show Russian films for at least two weeks in each month, but only 20,000,000 people saw Russian films last year, 25,000,000 fewer that the "target" set by the Russians. The Russians themselves admit that their movies have deteriorated since the film masterpieces produced in the 1920's.

The managing director of "Sovexportfilm, Ltd." M. Kusmin, returned to Berlin from Moscow recently with orders to jerk the eastern Germans out of their apathy by showing them a number of old German films made in the Nazi days, side by side with the new Russian pictures.

Birthday Party Falls Through

BALTIMORE, March 1 (AP). — Forty dancing teen-agers fell through the floor of an old frame house here Friday night and not one was hurt. The birthday party ended in the cellar, with a shower from broken pipes, after the floor gave way.

King, Queen Of Hearts Rule at Dance

JOYCE JOHNSON
Mount Douglas High School

The Girls' Y Teen Club held its belated Valentine frolic "Cupid's Capers," in the school auditorium Friday night, Feb. 22. A gay atmosphere was given to the auditorium by the use of streamers, hearts, cupids and drawings.

And from the looks of things many girls took advantage of the fact that it is Leap Year. The students danced to the music of Ted Tucker and his orchestra. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the King and Queen of Hearts who were chosen by popular vote to reign over the frolic. The royal positions went to Shirley Bovan and Douglas Bonar.

Refreshments were served during a short intermission and then dancing recommenced and carried on until the final note of the home waltz.

"Come on and get yourself a guy," was the motto of the Freshette Club's Leap Year dance held in the auditorium, Wednesday afternoon. No admission price was charged the boys to make sure there were plenty of them on which the girls could try their Leap Year tactics. Fun was supplied for everyone by a prearranged program of novelty dances.

A student at Mt. Douglas is going to be the happy winner of a new school sweater and crest in the very near future. A contest is being held by the students' council for a suitable design for a school crest.

The 1952 table tennis champions have been named. The senior girls' title went to May Wong when she defeated Joyce Johnson and the senior boys' title to May's younger brother, Jimmy, when he defeated Delbert Williams. Verna Hearn captured the junior girls' crown when Marie Johnson defaulted to her, and Don Easton defeated Des Johnston to take the junior boys' cup.

The mixed double cup went to Verna Hearn and Phil Lambrick when they defeated Daphne Blake and Kong Lum. House scores for the tournament showed that Fraser House was the winner with 10 points, Skeena followed closely behind with seven and Douglas third with six.

Food Airlift Aids Hungry, Wild Basutos

NEW YORK, March 1 (NANA)—Wild Basutos, inhabiting the mountainous British Protectorate of Basutoland, which sits surrounded on all sides by the Union of South Africa, and has been suffering from the same severe drought as the neighboring Cape and Natal Provinces and Orange Free State, have been saved from famine by a timely food airlift—the first in Africa's history.

A dispatch to the New Commonwealth of London related that some two tons of food were daily brought in by air in January to feed the tribesmen.

Grazing lands in the usually well-watered region had been reduced to stretches of parched veld. Unseasonable frosts—January is mid-summer in South Africa—had added more woes for the still-primitive population of some 600,000 nomad Bantus inhabiting the protectorate.

LIMIT EXPORTS

TOKYO, March 1 (Reuters)—The Ministry of International Trade and Industry announced Friday that Japanese exports to the British sterling area in 1952 will be limited to $650,000,000. This is equivalent to the estimated total of imports from the sterling area in the same period.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - -

By Howard Garis

HUNGRY SQUIRRELS

When Chief the police dog and his helper, Sergeant Bill, had dug out two little rabbits from beneath the snowdrift in Uncle Wiggily's yard, the police dogs were as much surprised as was Mr. Longears.

"What what did you say you had found, Chief?" Uncle Wiggily asked. "It sounded to me as if you said you found two little rabbits."

"That's just what I said, Uncle Wiggily. Two little rabbits, both warmly dressed in fur, and cuddled up here under the snow. That's what was moving under the drift—two little rabbits. Come and take a look at them, Uncle Wiggily. I wonder whose rabbits they are?"

"The rabbit gentleman hopped over and looked at the two bunnies. Then Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose and exclaimed:

"Those are two of my little rabbits! Jingle and Jangle, the twins!"

"Are they?" asked Sergeant Bill.

"Of course they are!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I ought to know! They live in my bungalow—don't you, Jingle and Jangle?"

"Hello, daddy!" said Jingle as she looked up at her father.

"Hello, daddy," said Jangle and she also looked at Mr. Long ears.

"I guess that proves it," said Sergeant Bill. "They are your rabbits all right, Mr. Longears. But what are they doing away down under a snowdrift?"

"That's what I want to know," said Mr. Longears.

"So do I!" chimed in Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy. "I let Jingle and Jangle stay home from Hollow Tree School today. I telephoned to the Lady Mouse Teacher that our little twins had sniffling colds. I told them to keep warm and stay in their room. Now they are out in the snow. Oh, my goodness me sakes alive and a coffee pot full of icicle lollipops!" exclaimed Nurse Jane.

"That's what I say!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "Why are you out here in the snow, Jingle and Jangle, especially when you have the sniffle snuffles?"

"We got all over the sniffles," said Jingle.

"And the snuffles, too," added her twin sister. "So we went out to get some fresh air. Dr. Possum says fresh air is good for colds."

"Dr. Possum may be right at that, Uncle Wiggily," barked Chief. "But still I don't hold with these little rabbits coming out in the snow. I don't understand why they did it."

"Neither do I," went on Uncle Wiggily. "And I don't understand how they got out here under the snowdrift. How did you, Jingle and Jangle?"

"We made a tunnel and crawled through it," said Jingle.

"A tunnel!" squeaked Nurse Jane. "Can you imagine that? How did you do it?"

"It was easy," chimed in Jangle. "When we went out on the back porch and stepped into the snow we found it was too deep."

"It was almost over our heads," added Jingle. "So we said let's dig a snow tunnel and crawl through that, so it would be easier."

"So we did," said Jangle, taking up the story. "We burrowed under the snow and dug a tunnel and we kept on going. Then we got tired and we made a soft of cave here in the snow."

"That must have been when they got under the drift, Mr. Longears," barked Chief. "The drift is deep enough for these two little rabbits to hollow out a cave under it. And when they were doing that you must have sen them moving about."

"Yes, I saw something moving under the snow," said Uncle Wiggily. "But I didn't know it was Jingle and Jangle. Well, my dears, you have had enough snow fun, I think. Now you had better go back in the bungalow and get warm."

"I'll make some hot sassafras tea," said Nurse Jane. "That will keep them from catching any more cold." The muskrat lady was leading the rabbit twins back to the bungalow when all of a sudden, along came scampering Johnnie and Billie Bushytail.

"Speaking of sassafras tea," chattered Johnnie, "have you anything in the bungalow for two hungry squirrels?"

This is something new, isn't it? I will tell you more about it tomorrow, if the monkey doesn't throw a cocoanut at the foot of the stairs and hit the cabbage on the head when it's jumping over the sauerkraut.

THE ADVENTURES OF WILDROOT CREAM-OIL CHARLIE... A GOOD START IN A NEW JOB

Delights Helen Hayes

Stage Tots Steal Show In Enchanting Triumph

NEW YORK, March 2 (AP)—One of Broadway's most enchanting triumphs this season is that of two small fry players who are practically "stealing" the show from experienced star Helen Hayes. No one is more delighted than Miss Hayes, who made her own stage debut at the age of five.

Starring in the comic fantasy, "Mrs. McThing," by Mary Chase, Miss Hayes is finding that the ecstatic moments of the show are mostly being taken over by 10-year-old Brandon De Wilde and seven-year-old Lydia Reed.

"Mrs. McThing" is a whimsical, imaginative comedy and fantasy which Miss Chase apparently wrote to appeal as much to children as to adults, much in the mood of "Peter Pan."

The essence of the story of "Mrs. McThing" is a proper mother whose "perfect" little son has been adopted by a group of gangsters who think her young son is a genius.

Young Master De Wilde, who made a hit on Broadway two seasons ago as the dignified seven-year-old John Henry in "The Member of the Wedding," still is a young actor who looks to his future.

REGULAR SCHOOL

As the school law requires, De Wilde and young Miss Reed must attend regular school while playing in "Mrs. McThing" every

"De Wilde attends a public school in the afternoon. When his stage performances interfere with his public school study sessions he has a private tutor to give him the same lessons so he stays abreast of his classes.

Young Miss Reed is just beginning to encounter her school problems, but she is preparing for them. She goes to a private school from 2 to 4 p.m. each day.

Lydia says she is the success she now is with Miss Hayes in "Mrs. McThing" because she got fired from her first stage job.

She was playing a role in the drama, "The Number," in Philadelphia before its Broadway opening. Her role was only a small one and before the play got to Broadway she was written out of the show. That released her for present job.

Soloist at Symphony

Soprano Catherine Wendol will be one of the four soloists when the Victoria Symphony Orchestra and Victoria Choral Society presents Mendelssohn's oratorio "Elijah" on Monday in the Royal Theatre. Graham Steed will conduct. Miss Wendol started her singing career in opera at the London Coliseum, later specializing in oratorio, when she appeared with leading orchestra and choral societies in London and Wales. She came to Victoria in 1948.

Stradivari Due Here

Four superb players and four superb instruments will be heard in Victoria High School March 10 when the Paganini String Quartet appears, under auspices of the Victoria Arts Centre. Instruments are all Stradivari, and all were once owned by Nicolo Paganini, legendary early 19th century violinist. Quartet first appeared in 1946 before Library of Congress, Washington.

Japan Opera May Get Metropolitan Try-Out

A Japanese opera based on an old fairy tale may be presented next season at the Metropolitan, if Japan's leading tenor, Yoshie Fujiwara, has his way.

The opera was presented in Osaka, Japan, last month. It is a two-hour, one-scene production called "Twilight Crane."

It has been translated into English and has a cast of four adults and six children.

The story of the opera is based on an old tale of a crane which is saved from death by a simple farmer. As a reward for his kindness the crane appears to him in the form of a beautiful woman and becomes his wife, later flying away when his honest nature changes.

American critics who have seen the opera have advised tightening the story, and cutting of some of the superfluous themes and interludes. Some of the more appealing themes should be further developed, however, they stated.

A tightened version of the production may be suitable for television, according to some critics.

School Plans Presentation Of "Our Town"

Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" will be presented by Victoria High School students as their spring play on March 7 and 8.

The play will have a cast of 25, under direction of T. W. Mayne, assisted by Mrs. M. De La Mare.

The play, which first appeared in New York in 1938, uses no scenery except tables and chairs. The story is told by a narrator, the stage manager, who is also commentator and philosopher.

Bill Sturrock will be stage manager, and the school play will also star Faith Keifer, Sylvia Stone, Joan Howorth, Bill Farrow, Alan Conyers and Wally Ellis.

Board Plans For Future Of Mainland

NEW WESTMINSTER, March 1 (CP). — An overall plan prepared for the future development of the lower B.C. mainland was presented here today at the annual meeting of the Lower Mainland Regional Planning Board.

In presenting several recommendations, James Wilson, executive secretary, said the board is looking forward to a population of more than 1,500,000 on the Lower Mainland between Hope, B.C. and the Gulf of Georgia within the next 50 years.

Among the leading recommendations handed down was the proposed establishment of an international park in the Point Roberts area.

Point Roberts is partly American and partly Canadian. It is about 20 miles from Vancouver and is freely used by Canadians.

It is split by the Canadian boundary and the 350 residents of the American side are completely cut off from the United States.

LEASE SUGGESTED

Wilson said constitutional difficulties would probably prevent Canada from annexing the area but believed the Canadian government could lease the point for 99 or 999 years.

As an alternative he suggested the U.S. and Canada establish an international park administered jointly by the two countries.

The report is the result of two years of research and study by the planning board's executive staff. It is the first thorough study of the area.

It will be considered by civic leaders in all member municipalities and, if approved by them will be forwarded to the provincial and federal governments.

Curtain Pierced By Music

Sixteen bars of music pierced the Iron Curtain to save the first performance last week of "Ballet '52" by the Halifax Gotshalks Ballet Company at the Capitol Theatre, Halifax.

Slated as a major attraction of the Canadian Ballet Festival in Toronto, beginning May 5, the new ballet is set to music smuggled out of a Russian-dominated country by famed choreographer Osvalds Lemanis.

But somehow 16 vital bars were lost from the precious manuscript.

Rehearsals skipped over the missing part while musical director Alfred Strombergs attempted the difficult task of improvising music to match the unusual style of composer Minkus, behind the Iron Curtain.

At this time the Halifax Film Society invited the ballet company to a showing of ballet, particularly the famed Russian ballerina Ulanova.

During the showing of Ulanova dancing, one of the young Halifax ballerinas jumped up and shouted "There's our missing 16 bars."

Ulanova was dancing to the missing music, which was copied by Mr. Strombergs from the film's sound track, completing the score in time for the May festival.

Government Plans To Sell Butter

OTTAWA, March 1 (CP).—The government is ready to sell its butter, the agriculture department announced today.

Starting next Monday, the department will be open to call on its stockpile of 12,500,000 pounds at rates which will keep the price to the housewife at about the current level—70 cents a pound.

It will be sold in carload lots, delivered to the city or town of the purchaser at 66 cents a pound, first grade, in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, Quebec and Ontario and 65 cents a pound in British Columbia.

A JUICY STORY

Some guys go for dolls, others for wine, but buying fruit trees is a passion of mine—Other fellows fool with a chrysanthemum, but I go for the apple . . . the cherry . . . the plum. In our former place out there in View Royal, 14 trees I'd stamped in the soil. The peach faced south, trained on the sill, framing the window, the blossoms a thrill; when in the spring, they'd make you blink, changing our walls from ivory to pink. The cherry grew tall, a luscious Bing, & so did the apples . . . Gravenstein & King. My happiest moments out there by the sea, was munching this fruit high up in a tree. With dirt on my face, my britches snagged loose, as down on my chin dribbled the juice. No finer flavor has ever been, than the sweet-crisp taste of the Gravenstein; & nothing is sweeter, so quenches the thirst, than a great big peach, all ready to burst. But here in Oak Bay from thirst you could choke, all we've got is one big oak. Which isn't much use, except it adorns, & fills the lawn-mower with its nutty acorns; so the first thing I did here by the sea, was to plunk in the ground a Bing cherry tree. It grew very fast, now tall & straight, & so I got it a blossoming mate. You should think of YOUR mate, as here we meat, and both come see this sectional suite. It's blossoming here, smooth & slick, so come on in, and take your pick. Gay, spring-time colors to chase the gloom, come . . . get a "plum" for YOUR living room. Two dwarf trees I added, an apple, a plum, till space was at a premium; so when I came home the other noon, & yanked from the car, this apple & prune; the G.F. outside was hanging the clothes, "& just WHERE," she gasped, "do you plan to put these?" "Darned if I know, but I'll find a spot, so I took them around to the back of the lot. After awhile she took the car, so I got my shovel & hefty crow bar. I planted the apple close by the fence, which later I thot was rather dense; so I pulled it out, dug another whole, then around the yard I went for a stroll. Then dug another, some 10 feet away, then the apple & plum I did gently lay. "Oh . . . NO," she cried, "is this a joke, planting your trees, BENEATH that oak. That's the silliest thing I've ever seen, do you FEEL all right up there in the bean?" "THIS," I replied, "is a masterstroke. I can climb above and eat from the oak. From their sturdy limbs I can easily prune, besides they are dwarfs, an additional boon. At last I've proved, this oak's some use. "IT'S GONNA GIVE PRUNE & APPLE JUICE." She turned away as if to say, this is the goofiest orchard in the whole of Oak Bay. But I pictured myself, & the thot was sublime, reaching DOWN for an apple . . . IN THE OLD SUMMERTIME.

What Made "The Little Woman" a Tough Critic?

and why that means

Better Living — for Everybody!

Today's home-maker is a shrewd buyer, an informed critic of everything she buys. She knows values better than her mother or grandmother ever did. When it comes to food, she buys wisely to obtain the greatest nutrition yield and menu variety for every dollar. Textiles and clothing she judges as carefully, gauging workmanship, wearing qualities. She is an expert buyer.

Advertising helped make the "Little Woman" what she is today. Through the advertising pages of her newspaper she is informed of the qualities of goods offered for sale. The advertising messages strive to give her the facts that guide her buying. Advertising helped make her an expert buyer. Now, advertising must work all the harder to continue answering her demands for facts before buying.

Information makes the big difference in the buying performance of today's home-maker. We live better because we set high standards on everything we buy. Manufacturers of goods, merchants who sell those goods—all of them must meet our high standards because we know how good the things we want can be. Today, nobody need buy a pig in a poke.

Information is the force of advertising. Scan the advertising columns of this paper, and you'll find them packed with information that makes intelligent buyers of all of us. It adds up to better living that surpasses the dreams of a generation ago.

Because of advertising appearing regularly in its pages, this newspaper is aware that the service it performs for its readers is far greater and much more valuable than it could otherwise be.

Little Toot Top Tooter

City Boom in Kiddies' Records Boomerang to Suffering Adults

A saucer-sized recording of "Little Toot—the Tug Boat" is spinning happily along as one of the hottest platters now on sale in Victoria record stores.

Two record stores in this city reported yesterday "Little Toot" was riding the crest of a current boom in children's records.

Sales of children's records go into high gear during the winter and on rainy days, record clerks reported. It's an indication that parents buy them to keep Junior quiet on those dull days.

One record bar reported selling one juvenile-type recording for every five adult. At the other, an astonishing three kiddie's records were being sold to one popular adult-size record.

Both stores said Little Toot, the happy harbor tug, was leading the toy record parade.

Other favorites were the classic "Three Little Kittens," "Farmer in the Dell," "Farmyard Fun," and other recordings based on Disney or Mother Goose characters.

But signs were not lacking the children's record boom was turning into a boomerang for some parents who have heard the song about "Little Toot" once too often.

Some parents, oddly, were viewing the advertised "unbreakable" quality of the children's records as a handicap rather than an advantage.

At best, "Little Toot" is no more than a counter irritant to the noises Junior made during slack periods in the pre-record days, they think.

One father said gloomily he had been forced to choose between "Little Toot" and "Sounds Off."

"My youngsters were unable to take a bite out of 'Little Toot,' although they had no trouble eating a rubber alligator," he said. "But they finally threw the record in the fire and I thought that was the end of it."

"But the next morning they got up at six and started playing 'Sound-Off' with the volume turned up," he added, glumly. "Now I'm going down to buy 'Little Toot' again."

Mrs. Roberson, Saseenos, Dies

SOOKE, March 1.—The death Friday of Mrs. H. L. Roberson of Saseenos is mourned by the whole district of Sooke.

Widely known for her philanthropy here for almost 30 years, Mrs. Roberson took a very active part in many fields and organizations.

She was a leader of the Sooke Girl Guides, Sunday school, women's auxiliary activities, an ardent church worker, and supporter of Red Cross all her life.

Mrs. Roberson will be remembered by many South Vancouver Islanders for her supervision of the baby show on All-Sooke Day, a task which she thoroughly enjoyed on every celebration since its inception in 1934.

Trinder Tour Gives Aid To Crippled Children

Help for crippled children will be a theme the audience never sees when they attend "Royal Command Music Hall Varieties," presented by British comedian Tommy Trinder.

The concert will appear at the Royal Theatre on March 17 for two shows, at 6.30 and 9.15 p.m.

Proceeds of the tour will go to Variety Village, a vocational training school founded by the Toronto Variety Club.

Objective of the club is to provide technical and school training for handicapped children.

Leading Military Band Plays Here on Sunday

MILITARY ACTIVITIES

By TREVOR COLLINS

Victorians will have an opportunity to hear one of the top military bands in Western Canada at the Odeon Theatre next Sunday.

The R.C.A.F. band from Edmonton under the direction of veteran musician Bandmaster F/O. L. D. Corcoran, will commence an 18-point program at 2.45 p.m.

Admission will be free but a collection will be taken in aid of the local air cadet squadron.

On Friday the 33-man band will play at the Veterans' Hospital and after the Sunday engagement will tour nearly all the large centres on Vancouver Island. Proceeds will go to the air cadets at the towns where the band plays.

"It is rated as one of the best in Canada," Flt. Lieut. Hugh Campbell, officer commanding the local recruiting office said yesterday.

A Victoria musician with the band, LAC. Raymond Haggart, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Haggart, 1240 Faithful, is expecting to have a day or two at home between engagements.

Although born in the Philippine Islands the young clarinet player is no stranger to Victoria. He was educated at Sir James Douglas School, Victoria High School and Central Junior High School.

He also studied under Hans Gruber and played with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra before joining the R.C.A.F. in June, 1950.

Another Victoria airman with the band is Sgt. William Ratcliffe, who learned to play a cornet when he was 10 years old. His parents live at 2107 Blanshard.

He was born in Edmonton but moved to Victoria and was educated at Sir James Douglas School and Victoria High School. He studied music under the direction of his father, W. Ratcliffe, who was a bandmaster of Salvation Army bands for 42 years.

A capable typist, the sergeant fills in his spare time with the band by doing secretarial work for the bandmaster. He also handles the publicity.

Recently he added another notch to his long list of achievements by being elected vice-president of the British Columbia Rifle Association.

The election of officers was held at a meeting held in Vancouver.

National rifle shooting matches in Ottawa are familiar to Major Spittal. He has attended many championship meets in the capital city and was the grand aggregate and B.C. championship winner in 1947.

Major J. M. MacNeil, Vancouver, was re-elected president of the organization. Capt. H. L. Collings, of Victoria, was returned as secretary and Capt. W. B. McKay, Victoria was re-elected treasurer. Lieut. Hugh Campbell, of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's) was named B.C.R.A. representative to the council of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association.

There seems to be some doubt here ove, what a .50-calibre machine gun bullet looks like. One was identified in a local paper this week by a veteran of the Italian campaign, Roy (Cap) Thorsen.

More competent authority disclosed the shell was a .37-M.M. American Oerlikon — used by youngsters to hold B.B. gun pellets.

Here's a view from the back of a contingent of Red Army troops as it is headed toward the Brandenburg Gate in Berlin. The unit was among a group which took part in ceremonies at the Russian War Memorial, which is located in the western half of the divided capital. As the cameraman took this picture, a West Berliner said: "That is our favorite view of Russian soldiers."—(Central Press Canadian.)

School System Raked By Duncan Alderman

DUNCAN, March 1—Maybe the modern school couldn't stand in the shadow of the little red school house of a bygone—and stricter—age.

During a discussion on teachers' salaries here yesterday, Ald. Jack Dobson lashed out at "the whole school system."

"We are paying for experiments," Ald. Dobson told a joint meeting of the Duncan and North Cowichan councils. "The schools do not turn out the class of pupils they should.

"They are a disgrace to any school. They can't spell. They can't write.

"When I went to school, pupils had to learn or they would be thrown out. Now they have education handed to them on a platter. They can take it or leave it.

"Most of them leave it," he concluded.

Stalin's Son Employs Official Food Taster

MUNICH, March 1 (AP).—Vassily Stalin, son of Russia's prime minister, is as suspicious as a Roman emperor. He uses an official taster, whose job it is to sample all food before the younger Stalin eats it.

A Russian soldier named Sergei, who deserted to the west a year ago, should know. He was a cook in Vassily Stalin's kitchen in the Soviet zone of Germany.

"I don't make propaganda," Sergei said. "I tell the truth. And I saw the taster. He was Vassily Stalin's private doctor. Before meals were served he came into the kitchen to taste. A sip of soup, a bite of meat, a taste of vegetables. Then he stood by with a long face while it was taken from the kitchen and put on the table. He made sure that nobody slipped in any poison.

"We used to say 'as the father does, so does the son.' We used to wonder who was the taster in Premier Stalin's home."

ONLY THE BEST

The younger Stalin, who stayed for a time as an occupation officer in Germany, never stinted himself, the young cook said.

"Whatever was the best in food, he got. Banquets, private meals, all were the best. And wines and schnapps and vodka, too. Girls, of course. It used to make me sick because I knew what the common soldiers were getting."

He said that Vassily Stalin, known for his temper and hatred of the West, was a great party giver and finicky about his service.

"You only got one mistake. Any more and out you went. In a way, everybody did his best to work correctly. Because we in the kitchen naturally saw to it that we had enough to eat and drink."

Eventually, the younger Stalin went back to Moscow, and Sergei went back to a guards division. He spent most of his time in barracks, but he had seen enough to know that life outside the Soviet Union was too desirable to leave.

"Germans had more freedom, more food, better treatment than any of us," he said. "I had heard enough propaganda for one lifetime. So one day I decided to do . . ."

Debate Challenge Looms On Service Hostel Issue

Challenge for a public debate on the merits of establishing a service hostel in Victoria will be issued by David Sadler, R.C.N., to Thomas Cressy and L. LaPierre.

At a recent meeting of the Victoria Citizens' League, Mr. Cressy and Mr. LaPierre expressed the view that, "If servicemen haven't enough guts to get their own entertainment they should be in the Boy Scouts. They're featherbedding."

In a letter to The Colonist, Mr. Sadler says, "Those of us who are responsible for the behavior of young servicemen, many of whom are still in their teens, know only too well the problem they have to find something to do, and some place to go.

"May I appeal to Mr. Cressy to investigate before making public expression."

Pope to Mark Anniversaries

VATICAN CITY, March 1 (AP).—Pope Pius will observe a double anniversary Suaday—that of his 76th birthday and the 13th of his election to the pontificate.

Papal and Vatican flags will fly, but it will be another day of work and prayer for the frail leader of more than 400,000,000 Roman Catholics. Those close to him say his health is good for one of his years.

His physician, Professor Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, told the Italian News Agency Ansa today the secret of the Pope's health is contained in one word: Frugality.

Labor Party Formation Possible After Meeting

ON THE LABOR FRONT

By BILL MAVOR

A Labor Party may be formed next Friday to enter British Columbia's political battles.

Tom Uphill (Labor, Fernie) said the decision will rest with about 100 delegates expected to attend a labor rally called by him at Vancouver.

He will explain the present government situation to the delegates and then throw the meeting open to them for their suggestions and motion, Mr. Uphill said yesterday. She [illegible] maybe a Labor Party, he said.

Vancouver reports have indicated the meeting is expected to lay down in one program what labor groups are attempting to obtain through legislation.

Mr. Uphill said he has received offers of support for his plan and that most labor groups have signified they will send delegates.

The Labor Relations Board may become involved in a court test case recommended by a Vancouver city conciliation committee.

The committee will recommend to city council on Tuesday that a test case be made of the board's order to set up a conciliation board in a dispute with outside workers, Canadian Press reports.

A letter from the board's Victoria office gave both parties five days from receipt of the order to nominate representatives. If no person is named, the board will do so, says Canadian Press.

The union has accepted the requirement. Ald. R. K. Gervin said, however, that the L.R.B. has "no authority under the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act to order the city to join a conciliation board."

Dispute between the city and union began on the allegation that the outside workers failed to signify intention of reopening wage clauses in time. The 1951 contract legally runs through to Dec. 31, 1952.

A day prior to the Victoria letter, the Vancouver L.R.B. office recommended both parties proceed with collective bargaining.

The increase was effective Feb. 14 and was signed by the General Teamsters' Union (A.F.L.-T.L.C.).

Legal Fees and Services

A lawyer cannot collect more for his services than the law allows.

There is a definite scale of fees fixed by law for legal services.

It frequently happens that considerable legal expense is incurred because a lawyer was not consulted beforehand—for instance, before lending money, taking security, going into business, or buying property.

A lawyer would much prefer, at a small cost, to keep his client out of trouble than at a much greater cost attempt to rescue him from a difficulty that could have easily been avoided.
